II. Summary of 2023 Business Plan

(I) Operating Policies and Future Development Strategies

YungShin Group's current development in the health industry is extensive. YungShin Group's businesses cover the R&D of upstream active pharmaceutical ingredients (APIs) and intermediates, midstream production of agents, and downstream sales of related products. We also aim to become one of the world's leading generic drug producers. Important strategies that will be continuously developed in 2023 are as follows:

1. Continuously improve the investment and development efficiency of medical and health industries

YungShin Group has developed generic drugs for more than 60 years with years of experience in the upstream and downstream sectors of generic drug. As an investment holding corporation, the Corporation will increase or decrease investments in businesses as appropriate to strengthen resources and form alliances, make alliances, get into mergers and acquire other pharmaceutical companies to improve the Group's competitiveness and increase market share.

2. Source and supply control of API required by the Group

In the intense cost-competitive generic drug market, the Group controls R&D and supply of APIs, which are important elements for survival and development of generic drug companies. YungShin Group had invested in R&D and production of APIs since the early stage of its development. Now, it has API R&D and production bases in the Group and will continue to increase its API varieties and vertical integration by means of cooperation, investment, merger, and acquisition.

3. Continuously optimize production efficiency and flexibly control inventory and business strategy

In response to the post-pandemic era and inflation, YungShin Group has set up a cross-corporation platform response team to share information on raw materials, transportation, unexpected variables in each country and response strategies. At present, in addition to continuously improving the production process, the Group has examined the source and supply of raw materials. In the short term, the inventory of raw materials for important and strategic pharmaceutical products has been extended from quarterly accrual to annual accrual in order to maintain normal production and supply. In the long term, the second and third sources and the independently developed raw materials will be added as the strategic direction to maintain the Group's long-term market competitiveness.

4. Promote the Group's tangible and intangible assets activation

With more than 60 years of operation, the Group has continuously invested in R&D, production and sales, and has accumulated substantial tangible and intangible assets. Now, it will actively promote the activation of various assets, in addition to introducing mature companies to the capital market, and will examine internal intangible assets and activate their application, to create new benefits for the Group and continue to develop health related multi-angle management, so as to enhance the competitiveness of the Group.

5. Continue to promote the sustainable investment and development of ESG

As one of the leading generic drug companies in Taiwan, YungShin Group has adhered to its corporate values for service, integrity, and innovation for its core pharmaceutical manufacturing business over the years. We have become a comprehensive multinational pharmaceutical and healthcare technology group. In addition to manufacturing high-quality pharmaceutical products, health care products, and animal drugs, we continue to invest in research and development for high-quality pharmaceutical products for treatments and support incentives for pharmaceutical research. We have made active investments in comprehensive care including elderly care, health and leisure, healthcare, and cosmetic medical services to fulfill our brand vision of "secure health, enhance beauty and create happiness".

In addition to focusing on sustainable development, the YungShin Group also uses its platforms including the "YungShin Social Welfare Foundation", "TienTe Lee Biomedical Foundation", "YungShin Elderly Nursing Home", and "YungShin Cup Volleyball Championships" to fulfill its corporate social responsibilities.

(II) Estimated Sales Volume and Supporting Information

The Corporation is an industrial investment holding corporation and its main business is general investment. Therefore, no sales volume forecast is made.

(III) Major Production & Sales Policies

The Corporation is an industrial investment holding corporation and its main business is general investment. Therefore, no production and sales policies have been formulated.

(IV) Impact of External Competitive Environment

The biotechnology industry currently faces the following external threats:

1. Both advanced and developing countries take the biotech industry as their main development direction and use national resources to support the research, development, plant setup, and even mergers and acquisitions. For example, in the largest pharmaceutical companies in both China, France, Malaysia, etc., the governments are the largest shareholders, which support and develop large pharmaceutical companies with national resources to raise the threshold of comprehensive competition.
2. Individual countries have been continuously enhancing the rigor of their regulatory supervision, requirement for raw materials, and specifications of finished products, as also inspections. This has resulted in an increase in the cost of pharmaceutical research, development, and production. It also has increased product marketing and entry barriers.
3. Countries around the world actively compete for biotech talents, while both Taiwan and the Corporation have failed to attract foreign biotech talent or competitive advantages have been inadequate.
4. Most biotech raw materials for Taiwan and the Corporation are imported as the domestic market is small, making production uneconomic because of economies of scale. Hence, Taiwan relies on purchases from abroad for most of its raw material needs. But, the quantity of supplies and fluctuations in prices are difficult to control, increasing operating risks.
5. With state support or because of their own financial strength, large biotech companies are getting merged or acquired by multinational pharmaceutical companies or for products, both in quantity and scale, making it difficult for us to plan market strategies.

Despite these threats in the external operating environment, YungShin Group will continue to operate with its internal competencies and enhance its competitive strength. We will continue to seek opportunities to consolidate our upstream and downstream operations, and expand the scale to enhance the development of the upstream and downstream value chain.

(V) Impact of Regulatory Environment

1. Lower budgetary support for healthcare in various countries has hurt the profitability of generic drug makers.
2. Countries across the world have imposed stricter regulations on drug inspections, registration, and patents. The launch of new products is delayed, increasing investment and sales risks for products.
3. Our conforming to PICs GMP standards of international pharmaceutical administration led by the European Union has helped us expand in international markets.

(VI) Impact of Overall Operating Environment

Fiscal constraints have forced many countries to exercise control over medical expenditure. Governments of the United States, Japan and emerging countries in Asia have vigorously promoted the use of generic drugs. However, rapidly aging population in many countries and the distorted population structure will gradually increase the demand for prescription drugs to treat chronic diseases as also for anti-cancer drugs. Drugs to treat or prevent physical and mental illnesses and anti-aging will have demand. YungShin Group has expanded its operations into Southeast Asia, United States, China, and Japan over many years which will help increase the global presence of YungShin Group's generic drugs.

I wish to thank the shareholders for support and encouragement to the Corporation, and look forward to continued guidance and advice. The Corporation will share the benefits of business operations with shareholders through sustainable growth and a consistent dividend policy.

Chairman Fang-Hsin Lee

(II) Industry overview:

1. YungShin Global Holding Corporation:

(1) Status and Development of the Industry:

Global pharmaceutical market:

Looking at the world's overall environmental changes, due to the drug market being affected by the health care policies, budget and cost control of governments as well as the medical budget of consumers, the market fluctuations of new and generic drugs and drug price control measures will bring uncertainty to the global drug market size in the future. It is predicted that the global generic drug sales volume will reach US$ 422.5 billion by 2024, with a CAGR of 5.0% from 2019 to 2024.

With the continuous decline in fertility and mortality rates across the world, the proportion of young population continues to decrease as population aging accelerates. The population of the elderly surpassed 7.0% in 2005 and the global population structure officially entered that of an aging society. By 2040, the population aged 65 and above will surpass 1.3 billion as the globe becomes an aging society. The number of the elderly and young population will be equalized by 2075 and the elderly population will exceed the young population. By then, the world will face the impact of a more severe aging society and low birthrate. As the global population ages and the population with chronic diseases continue to increase, high-price and breakthrough drugs will enter the market and continue to power overall growth in the pharmaceutical market. In the current global drug market, the United States, mainland China, Japan, Germany, and the United Kingdom are the top five drug markets in the world. Among them, the total drug market size of the US has reached approximately US$373.3 billion, maintaining it as the top 1 market, mainland China's drug market size is about US$140.37 billion, and the Japanese drug market is about US$103 billion, which are the three countries that exceed US$100 billion in annual drug market size worldwide. The global population growth and increased medical demand of an aging society means that the scale of the global pharmaceutical market will increase as emerging markets begin to provide more comprehensive healthcare systems and prices of cancer drugs and other new drugs increase.

North America and Europe have long been the main regional markets for global pharmaceutical sales. However, as they are considered mature markets, the growth rate of the pharmaceutical market is relatively slow due to the pressure of a slowed economic development and medical expenditures. Their share of the global market has gradually declined. Asia Pacific enjoys the advantages of rapid population growth and the increased demand for medical services powered by economic development. Countries such as Mainland

China, India, Bangladesh, Iran, and Vietnam are still considered emerging markets and have high potential for high-speed growth in their pharmaceutical markets. As such, Asia Pacific's market share in the global pharmaceutical market has steadily increased each year.

In terms of treatment, cancer research remains the most popular field for research and development. Despite the advancement of innovative breakthrough therapy in recent years with substantial advancement for the treatment of certain cancers, many demands remain unmet. Therefore, research and development of cancer drugs continues to attract investments. Immunotherapy drugs have been proven to be effective for the treatment of certain cancers and applications have been expanded to treatments of infections and inflammation suppression. It is expected to be a key sector for the development of new drugs in the future.

The global pharmaceutical market is expected to benefit from the global economic growth in the next five years. Although many political uncertainties still affect the development of economic or medical policies, the accelerated aging of the global population means a continuous increase of demand for medical services that must be met by innovative and breakthrough new drugs. The demand will be the main driver in the growth of the pharmaceutical market. The main factors limiting the growth of the pharmaceutical market will be medical expenditures, drug price controls, the wave of expiration of brand drugs due to expiration of patents and their replacement by generic drugs and biosimilars. According to the prediction of the market industry intelligence agency BMI, the usage amount of global drug market will continue to be amplified, but in the context of drug price control pressure, expected increase of the market acceptance for generic drugs and biologically similar drugs, the output is expected to reach 1.6 trillion USD by 2026.

(2) Product development trends and competition:

The following is a brief description of development trends and competition conditions of biopharmaceuticals, generic drugs, and biosimilars.

A. Biopharmaceuticals market:

Biopharmaceuticals are manufactured using biotechnology methods such as genetic engineering to produce drugs with features including larger molecular size, higher complexity of structures, and higher production costs when compared with small molecule drugs. However, they generally have superior effects in treating cancers, autoimmune diseases, and other major diseases. They also have fewer side effects and generally accepted by patients. As a result, despite the high production cost of biopharmaceuticals, their high market acceptance made them the items with the greatest potential in the pharmaceutical market. Their share of the pharmaceutical market has also increased each year.

The United States and Europe have expedited reviews of biosimilars for launch in the market and these measures have become the main obstacles for growth of the biopharmaceuticals market. Therefore, the number of innovative biopharmaceuticals in launched still reached record highs and there are still many biopharmaceuticals with great market potential in research and development or clinical trials. They are expected to generate continuous growth in the biopharmaceuticals market and the compound annual growth rate (CAGR) from 2020 to 2025 may yet reach 9%.

B. Generic drug market:

Generic drugs refer to drugs created based on the small-molecule patent drugs developed by the original manufacturer as reference drugs. They have identical usage, dosage, safety, therapeutic effects, method of delivery, quality, and pharmacodynamic properties as the patent drugs or are biological equivalent. Therefore, generic drugs and reference drugs have the same chemical contents, dosage and therapeutic effects.

As the global population ages and new drug prices become more expensive, leading to increasing medical expenditure, governments around the world are actively encouraging the use of generic drugs. Despite the restrictions imposed by the United States through the TPP and bilateral free trade agreements in the form of patent linkage and quality regulatory risks, the global generic drug market still continued its steady growth. The significance of the existence of generic drugs is to provide the public with drugs and treatment at affordable prices. The soaring medical expenditure has caused a heavy financial burden in many countries. Many countries have put forward encouraging policies to expand the popularization rate of generic drugs to reduce medical expenditures. For example, Japan's Ministry of Health and Welfare aims to achieve 85% for the consumption rate of generic drugs in 2022 and actively approve the launching of generic drugs; France has introduced a cost-control plan for health spending, aiming to reduce drug prices and increase the use of generic drugs. Advanced countries have adopted incentives and restrictions to continue to promote the growth of the generic drug market.

In terms of the global generic drug market, emerging countries such as China will continue to maintain two-digit high-speed growth due to their immense potential. The United States, Japan, and five countries in Western Europe will achieve 3-5% growth each year, the same rate as the population aging rate.

C. Biosimilar market:

Biosimilars refer to drugs developed and produced by biopharmaceutical companies based on biopharmaceutical products as references. However, due to the complex and unstable molecular structure of biosimilars, the products cannot be completely identical to the molecular characteristics of biopharmaceuticals created by the original manufacturer. They can only be described as similar, and the terms for biosimilars vary from country to country. For example, the US FDA refers to them as Follow-on Biologics; the EU EMA refers to them as biosimilars; they are referred to as biosimilar drugs in Taiwan.

The molecular characteristics Biosimilars are different from those of generic drugs and the review model of generic drugs thus cannot be used. Therefore, countries must establish dedicated legislation as the basis for reviews. The development cost of biosimilars is higher than that of generic drugs and the cost has increased the entry barrier for pharmaceutical companies. Therefore, they are less competitive than generic drugs and manufacturers can maintain a higher profit margin.

As biosimilars have superior therapeutic effects and can help reduce medical costs, many countries have commenced the establishment of related regulations to promote the development of biosimilars. The EU EMA is the first region in the world to establish regulations for the review and approval of biosimilars and it authorized the launch of the first biosimilar product in 2006. As of 2017, the EU market, consisting mainly of the five countries in Western Europe, had accelerated the approval of 38 biosimilars. Following the European Union, the US FDA approved the regulation of biosimilars in 2012, the first biosimilar was approved in 2015, four biosimilars followed in 2016. As of May 2018, 10 products have entered the US market.

The approval of the US FDA for the launch of biosimilars and the expiration of many future biopharmaceutical patents have attracted many manufacturers to invest in the development of biosimilars. They aim to develop business opportunities in the biosimilar market after the expiration of the patents.

(3) Correlation between upstream, midstream, and downstream of the industry:

Taiwan's drug market: In Taiwan's drug market, due to the increase of aging population and demand for chronic medical treatment, the drug demand has been growing constantly. According to IQVIA's data and the estimation of the IT IS research team of DCB's Industry Information Department, by 2024, Taiwan's drug market will reach NT$241.0 billion. In 2020, affected by the COVID-19 epidemic, the decrease of patients' willingness to seek medical treatment is expected to slow down the growth of Taiwan's drug market, which will gradually recover after 2021. However, affected by the health insurance drug price control, the overall Taiwan drug market is expected to see limited growth in the future. It is estimated that the CAGR of the Taiwan drug market in 2019-2024 will be 3.5%, which is slightly lower than the global rate of 4.3%.

To estimate the changes in the distribution of various drug categories in Taiwan's drug market in 2024, in the face of the aging population and the increasing demand for drugs for chronic diseases, which has caused the increasing rise in the expenditures of health insurance drugs, in order to reduce the continuously increasing medical burden, the future policy will continue to encourage the use of generic drugs and biologically similar drugs. It is predicted that the proportion of sales of generic drugs in Taiwan will rise slightly from 28.2% to 29.1%, and the proportion of sales of patented drugs in the overall pharmaceutical market will slightly decrease from 64.3% in 2019 to 63.6% in 2024, while the OTC medication will decline slightly.

A. Western medicine preparation market:

Western medicine preparation refers to the processing of active ingredients with active cost for the production of small molecule drugs with different preparations or dosage types and specific therapeutic effects. Western medicine preparations can also be divided into new drugs with patent protection or generic drugs developed based on ingredients or manufacturing methods of original pharmaceutical manufacturers whose patent protection has expired. In the early days, most of the western generic pharmaceutical preparation manufacturers in Taiwan engaged in the development of generic drugs. However, as the government began promoting the development of the biotech industry, the pharmaceutical industry was listed as a key sector and the government used measures such as subsidies for research and development to encourage academic and research institutions to work with pharmaceuticals companies to develop new small-molecule drugs. Although generic drugs remain the main source of revenue for Western medicine preparations in Taiwan, the industry has shifted toward the development of unique generic drugs.

In general, the western medicine preparations industry in Taiwan is currently led by generic drugs. Although it faces pressures such as increase in production costs and reduced profit margins of pharmaceutical products, the manufacturers retain a certain level of competitiveness. Export volume of western medicine preparations has grown each year and the western medicine preparations industry has achieved steady growth in output value as a result of continuous expansion of export sales. The Japanese government also continues to increase the use of generic drugs and vigorously promoted their use. Most of the countries of Taiwan's "New Southbound Policy" use generic drugs. With rapidly aging population and increased burden on medical services, many governments across the world have encouraged the use of generic drugs to control medical costs. These policies are expected to bring forth opportunities for growth to the generic drug industry. OTC drugs will become increasingly important with economic development and popularization of education as people pay more attention to their own health. The austerity policies adopted by governments of different countries for medical expenditures and the rise of self-medication will usher in more market opportunities.

In 2019, the output value of Western medicine preparations in Taiwan was NT$47.61 billion, up 7.2% compared with 2018, but still lower than the overall growth rate of Taiwan's pharmaceutical industry of 7.6%, with a CAGR of 4.7% from 2015 to 2019. Taiwan's current western medicine preparations are mainly generic drugs and mainly sold in the Taiwan market, only a small number of them are exported, but in the policy context of lowering the drug price of the Taiwan government, the growth of generic drug market has been blocked in Taiwan, so the Taiwanese western medicine preparation manufacturers have been actively expanding overseas market in recent years in order to increase sales and expand market, and achieved sharp growth in export in 2019, making the output value growth rate of western medicine preparation show a three-year high. Most of the new ingredients for new drugs in Taiwan rely on imports from major pharmaceutical companies in Europe and the United States. In response to the aging population and progress in new treatment methods, the price of new drugs has increased significantly due to the rising cost of research and development expenses. These trends have caused the output to maintain a two-digit growth.

The Western medicine preparation manufacturers in Taiwan focus on the domestic market which includes prescription drugs that can only be described with prescriptions from doctors and over-the-counter drugs that require preparation by pharmacists. The National Health Insurance system has been implemented for many years and the NHI drug market has become the largest drug market in Taiwan. The introduction of new drugs has taken up significant segments of the NHI drug market and prompted domestic pharmaceutical manufacturers to seek expansion in overseas markets. YungShin Group has been deploying in the United States, mainland China, Southeast Asia, and Japan for many years. In addition to Taiwan, it has also set up factories and operating bases overseas and can sell products via local subsidiaries or via third parties.

B. Active pharmaceutical ingredients market:

Pharmaceutical manufacturers make use of active pharmaceutical ingredients or active ingredients, and adds excipients to produce products for sale. APIs are therefore crucial for the development of the pharmaceutical industry. To improve the quality of pharmaceutical raw materials, the government of Taiwan has implemented the GMP system for API manufacturing plants since January 1, 2016. The government requires API products used by Western medicine preparation to be provided with GMP certification documents issued by domestic and overseas competent authorities before they may be used.

The expiration of patents of Western medicine preparations and biopharmaceuticals around the world has brought forth new product development opportunities to API companies. Taiwan government has championed the New Southbound Policy. Southeast Asian countries produce less APIs and mostly rely on imports. The regulatory management of APIs is less regulated than drugs and presents lower entry barriers. Therefore, they offer higher possibilities of export sales and opportunities. In addition, the business model of outsourcing of APIs for OEM manufacturing has gradually taken shape in the international market. It helps domestic API manufacturers in obtaining OEM opportunities.

In recent years, due to the outbreak of the COVID-19 epidemic leading to the lockdown of cities and the shutdown of API manufacturers in mainland China as a main API exporter, affecting the global supply chain of APIs and the imbalance between supply and demand of APIs all over the world, in addition to the trade conflict between the United States and China, making the US and Europe actively looking for new sources of APIs, which derives new opportunities of API demand. As an API supplying country, India's government and policy encourage domestic firms to actively strive for new business opportunities for API production supply, and the US government is also actively promoting manufacturers to produce APIs at home. Taiwan can also seek new international business opportunities through niche topics actively with its own core technical competitiveness in APIs.

C. Biological preparation market:

Biological preparations include biopharmaceuticals, vaccines, blood preparations and drugs with allergen extracts. Due to the complex product molecular structure, the development process and R&D expenses are higher than those of small molecule new drugs. However, biological preparations are highly effective and have minimal side effects. Its market growth rate is higher than that of small molecule drugs. They have become key sectors of development for manufacturers across the globe and many domestic manufacturers have also invested in the research and development of products such as biopharmaceuticals and vaccines.

Today, related domestic manufacturers of biopharmaceuticals, vaccines, and biosimilars have achieved growth. They have obtained drug permits for vaccine products in multiple countries and they have been sold in domestic and export markets. The biopharmaceutical industry has entered a commercialization and production stage. In view of the small domestic demand market in Taiwan and the intense need to expand into global market in the face of future global opportunities and challenges, Taiwan's biopharmaceutical industry, due to its lack of international marketing experience, still needs to expand its product line and international markets through strategic alliances. In terms of the challenges in the research and development of innovative biopharmaceutical products, the speed of the development of immunotherapy and gene therapy for cancer treatment and other international R&D trends in Taiwan has been slower than competitors in Korea and Mainland China. It will affect the international competitiveness of emerging biopharmaceutical products in the future. The regulators have not yet established comprehensive regulations for innovative biopharmaceuticals such as RNA therapeutics and gene therapy, and they also lack review experience. Although biosimilars in Taiwan have been produced, entered clinical trials, and attracted major international partners, the intensification of the competition in the future will require strong market expansion strategies and cost control, which will be key for determining the success and profitability in the market.

2. Yung Shin Pharm. Ind. Co. Ltd.:

According to the Census and Statistics Department of the Ministry of Health and Welfare, Taiwan's overall medical expenditure will grow from NT$884.64 billion in 2010 to NT$1.3 trillion in 2020, and per capita medical expenditure will increase from NT$38,228 in 2010 to NT$56,199 in 2020, the pharmaceutical market continues to grow as a result of increasing healthcare spending. In addition, as Taiwan's population structure is developing towards an aging society, the demand for medical services is gradually increasing, which is one of the important reasons for the growth of the overall pharmaceutical market.

In recent years, the government has continued to achieve the goal of controlling health care spending through insurance premium adjustment, the new partial burden system and health insurance drug price control. However, the overall drug market in Taiwan continues to grow due to the expanding demand for medical care and the inclusion of many expensive drugs in health insurance coverage. Taiwan's pharmaceutical market will reach NT$221.31 billion in 2021, a ratio of 4% increase from 2020. It is estimated that the pharmaceutical market will continue to grow in the future as the number of senior citizens continues to grow and the demand for emerging therapies, cancer and chronic diseases increases.

Western medicine preparation factories in Taiwan mainly produce generic drugs, and sell and supply domestically in bulk. Despite the growing demand for drugs due to the aging population, drug prices in Taiwan have been continuously reduced by the health insurance drug price policy in recent years. As a result, the drug price in Taiwan becomes one of the lowest around the world, which also reduces the operating profit of manufacturers, resulting in a slowdown in the overall drug market growth. Therefore, the government should take into consideration the sustainable development of the generic drug industry while cutting drug prices so as to drive a virtuous circle of new drug investment.

3. Chemix Inc.:

Due the fiscal burden of the Japanese government and an aging population, the Japanese government has strongly encouraged and promoted the use of generic drugs in recent years to reduce medical expenses. The Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare of Japan has set a target of 80% penetration rate of generic drugs by 2020 (by 2019, the penetration rate of generic drugs has exceeded 75%). Therefore, with the support of the policy, the point reward system for using generic drugs adopted by medical authorities, and the change of the overall habit of drug use, the usage of generic drugs in Japan has grown considerably in recent years. However, in promoting the usage of generic drugs, in addition to the fierce competition among generic drug suppliers and the participation of large drug companies into generic drug market, Japan's authorities have been imposing increasingly strict quality requirements and inspections for generic drugs, and have increased the supervision efforts on the quality and manufacturing responsibility of generic drugs and the legal compliance of pharmaceutical factories. In addition, in order to mitigate the financial burden of the Japanese government, the healthcare drug price of generic drugs is also affected by the annual price reduction measures. Therefore, the continuous development of new products and the maintenance of competitive advantages and quality of products have become the most important challenges for the generic drug industry.

4. Vetnostrum Animal Health Co., Ltd.:

Vetnostrum Animal Health specializes in the production of animal health products including drugs and nutritional products. Animal drugs refer to preventive agents, therapeutic agents, diagnostic agents and other drugs that promote or regulate the physiological functions of animals, manufactured in accordance with microbiology, immunology or molecular biology, specifically for the prevention, treatment and diagnosis of animal diseases. The scope of coverage includes biologics, APIs, general chemicals (therapeutic bulk, injectables, oral liquids, topical liquids, ointments, and granules, etc.), and drugs given directly in feed (i.e. Medicated Feed Additive ("MFA")). The feed additive refers to the additional use in feed to improve the effectiveness of feed, maintain the quality of feed, promote the development of poultry, livestock, and aquatic species, maintain their health or other purposes. It generally contains feed supplements (minerals, vitamins, amino acids, etc.) and non-medicated feed additives ("non-MFA"), such as probiotics, enzymes, plant extracts and acidifiers.

Because of the issue of antibiotic resistance, governments have been restricting the use of prophylactic antibiotics. WTO and FAO jointly launched the "Global Action Plan on Antimicrobial Resistance" in 2015 to suppress the occurrence of drug-resistant pathogens; the EU has banned the use of antibiotics other than coccidiostats and histomonostats since December 31, 2015, and strictly listed the application, labeling, and packaging requirements for feed additives; USA encouraged operators to reduce the use of antibiotics in 2016, and in 2017 began revising veterinary feed regulations to mandate control and reduce the use of animal antibiotics, and to strengthen the approval process for feed additives, including the inspection and related standards required for approved feed additives. Applications for new animal feed additives must comply with relevant regulations, and must also provide sufficient information to demonstrate the safety of the animal feed additive; Japan also announced the "Positive Listing System for Pesticide and Chemical Residues in Food" to set residue limits for various animal drugs and feed additives in food; China issued the "Regulations on the Administration of Feeds and Feed Additives" and "Regulations on the Administration of Production Permits for Feed Additives and Premixed Feed Additives" in 2013 as well; Taiwan also established the "Feed Control Law", "Guidelines for the Use of Feed Additives", "Guidelines for the Use of Pharmaceuticals for Animals", "Regulations for the Use of Feed Additives Containing Drugs" and other regulations.

According to Precedence Research, the global animal health market will be US$53.15 billion in 2021. The overall market size is expected to grow to US$76.82 billion by 2030, with a compound annual growth rate of 4.2% from 2022 to 2030. According to Vantage Market Research, the animal pharmaceuticals market will reach US$24.31 billion in 2020. It is expected to reach US$40.75 billion in 2028, representing a compound annual growth rate of 6.67%. In the part of feed additives, according to Grand View Research, the global feed additives market is valued at US$40.74 billion in 2022 and will continue to grow at a compound annual growth rate of 3.5% from 2023 to 2030. The growth of feed additives is driven by the growing consumption and demand for safe and high-quality meat. The requirements and regulation of meat quality in advanced countries such as North America and Europe have also led to the standardization of meat products.

In terms of companion animals, according to data from the American Pet Products Association (APPA) and Taiwan's Ministry of Economic Affairs, Americans spend about 70 billion US dollars a year on pets, while the scale of the global pet industry is estimated to be as high as 200 billion US dollars. In addition to the United States, the majority of countries with well-developed pet industries are developed countries in Western Europe, Australia and Japan. However, the growth of the Asian economy, the increase in people's spending power, and the increase in number of pets, the development of related industries is expected to surpass Europe as Asia becomes the second largest pet market. In addition, pet owners in Europe, United States, and Asia have different types of pets due to differences in the living environment and rearing habits. In terms of dogs, pet owners in Europe and the United States prefer medium to large dogs, while pet owners in Asia prefer smaller dogs.

According to the Council of Agriculture, the number of dogs and cats in Taiwan will reach 2.95 million in 2021, exceeding the population of children under the age of 15 (2.89 million) for the first time, and there are already more pets than babies. It is estimated that by 2040, there will be 12 million pets in Taiwan, and the overall pet industry is estimated to be worth more than $ 0.5-60 billion. Especially after the COVID-19, the pet market is booming, and pets also have dietary, care and medical needs. According to the big data statistics of the Ministry of Economic Affairs, in Taiwan's pet market service industry network rankings, pet medical services rank first. Pets have been highly "companionized" and regarded as family members, which has brought changes to the pet medicine market and led to various types of medical services, which pay great attention to the professionalism of the consultation process and to meeting the psychological needs of pet owners who love their pets. If medical services for humans are used as an analogy for the development, the animal hospitals of the past were mostly general practitioners who provided care for dogs, cats, and other small animals. As pets become older, they suffer from more special diseases. In recent years, more animal hospitals in urban areas have become specialized in terms of clinical treatments and specialties. In addition to distinctions between hospitals dedicated to treating dogs or cats, more medical services including cardiology, dentistry, ophthalmology, orthopedics, dermatology, and immune disorder treatment are now provided. Specialist animal hospitals provide a diverse range of choices for medical services and the variety, prescriptions, or packaging specifications for human consumption or healthcare products no longer satisfy the needs of veterinarians or pet owners. Therefore, the demand for special drugs or healthcare items for pets has gradually increased.

According to the Euromonitor market research report, the output value of various consumption items in the US pet industry market in 2017 amounted to approximately US$4.1 billion, of which 36% were pet food, 23% were medical expenses, 16% were various pet products, 11% were pet cosmetics, and 14% were pet trading. According to surveys conducted by Japan Pet Food Association (JPFA), Japanese families spent on average more than JPY 120,000 per year on their pets. According to the breakdown of the pet industry, 39% of the pet industry spending in Japan was derived from pet food, 17% was from pet products, and 32% was from healthcare. II. Market and Production and Sales Overview

(I) Market Analysis:

- 1. YungShin Global Holding Corporation: The Corporation's main business is general investment and it is therefore not applicable.
- 2. Yung Shin Pharm. Ind. Co. Ltd.:
 - (1) Sales area and market share of major commodities:

The sales regions of main products of our company are mainly domestic sales, accounting for approximately 92% of individual business income, while export sales account for 8%. Due to the aging population in China and the continuous increase in chronic diseases, it has placed a heavy burden on national health insurance, and reducing drug prices is a significant obstacle to the growth of the market.. According to IQVIA's Taiwan drug sales data analyzed by the ITIS research team of the DCB investment group, the sales of generic drugs in Taiwan in 2021 were NT $60.7 billion, a decline of 1.2% compared to 2020, accounting for approximately 27.4% of the overall drug market in Taiwan, and the market share also declined by 1.4% compared to 2020. There is still a gap between the price payment of domestic drugs and the price of original drugs, and Yung Shin will continue to strengthen its products in the future to provide high-quality drugs for Chinese people.
 - (2) Future supply and demand conditions and growth of the market:

The western pharmaceutical preparation industry in Taiwan mainly focuses on domestic sales. The COVID-19 epidemic in Taiwan in 2021 was more severe than that in 2020, and people avoided going to hospitals or clinics for treatment, which caused a significant impact on the western pharmaceutical preparation industry in 2021. With the increase rate in vaccine injection, the public's attitude towards the epidemic has become normal, and it is estimated that the output value of the western pharmaceutical preparation industry will return to stability in the future.
 - (3) Advantages and disadvantages of competitive niche and development prospects and countermeasures:

Yung Shin Pharmaceutical has always been recognized by both customers and competitors with "complete product line, high quality, and reasonable price". Although the non-free market competition factors such as the "Health Insurance Drug Use Regulations" affect the competition in the market, Yung Shin Pharmaceutical can still maintain its competitive advantages under the existing stable basis and with the development of new products and new dosage forms. In addition to its comprehensive system, YSP also won recognition for the quality of its products. In addition, the Corporation has established differentiated corporate and brand image in recent years to maintain its relative competitive advantages.

A. Favorable factors:

- a. Under the COVID-19 epidemic and the turbulent geographical relationship between China and the USA, manufacturers in the international pharmaceutical industry have reduced their dependence on the Chinese mainland in order to diversify risks and avoid concentrating their supply chains in specific countries. Taiwan has advantages in its geographical location, as well as excellent domestic pharmaceutical production technology. In addition, Taiwan has introduced PIC/S GMP for many years and became a full member of the International Association for Pharmaceutical Regulations in 2018. Taiwan can strive to become a part of the new supply chain under the trend of supply chain reshaping.
- b. The major drug markets in the United States and Japan have adopted policies for encouraging the use of generic drugs. Emerging markets in Southeast Asia also focus on the use of generic drugs which will create opportunities for growth to the generic drugs industry in Taiwan.
- c. There is a strong consumer preference for buying OTC drugs for use as medication. It has contributed to growth in the OTC drug market across the world and may benefit the OTC drug industry in Taiwan.

B. Unfavorable conditions

- a. The high repeatability of Chinese generic drug products has caused manufacturers to compete through price reductions and reduced profits, all of which have become challenges for the operation of Chinese generic drug factories.
- b. The low estimates for the prices of new drugs, long price approval period, and tightened funding have obstructed the development of new drugs.
- c. OTC drugs are determined by the public themselves, so brand trust and brand awareness have become key factors in the performance of product sales. However, compared with the brands of multinational pharmaceutical factories, domestic OTC drug brands have lower brand trust and awareness, and their marketing resources are inferior to international pharmaceutical factories, thus they also become a challenge for OTC drug manufacturers in Taiwan.

It represents the advancement of the pharmaceutical technology in Taiwan. In addition, the Company has established a comprehensive bacteria mutation screening system and bacteria preservation, fermentation, and recycling processes to produce related APIs, cosmetics, and animal feed ingredients as it expands into related fermentation products and technologies. In the field of medical equipment, product items are gradually expanded, and multiple hyaluronic acid joint injections and medical beauty subcutaneous injections are developed. 3. Chemix Inc.: Not applicable.
4. Vetnostrum Animal Health Co., Ltd.:

The main products and uses include: Supplementary feed (pre-mixed vitamins/minerals), drug feed additives (antibiotics, anti-coccidia, and growth promotion), veterinary drugs (anti-microbe, respiratory system drugs, digestive system drugs, and insect repellent drugs) and nonpharmaceutical feed additives (acids, enzymes/probiotics, Chinese herbal medicine, toxin absorption agents). The Corporation has completed the construction of an animal injection factory (including sterile filling and final sterilization process) and an external preparation factory in 2019, obtained GMP inspection certification in January 2020, completed the construction of a pet preparation factory in the same year, and obtained GMP inspection certification in October 2020. Each preparation is manufactured in its own separate production line with an air-conditioning environmental control system to prevent cross-contamination. The production process involves the mixture, granulation, drying, and screening for different dosages before automatic filling and packaging. All manufacturing processes are conducted in compliance with GMP regulations and the ISO9001 quality management system. In response to market demand, the construction of pet nutrition product line was completed in May 2021, and the production of its own products began in 2022.

(III) Supply status of main raw materials:

1. YungShin Global Holding Corporation: The Corporation's main business is general investment and it is therefore not applicable.
2. Yung Shin Pharm. Ind. Co. Ltd.:

The global supply chain continues to experience the same instability as in previous years. In the first half of 2022, the COVID-19 broke out again China, and also due to issues such as the Ukrainian Russian War and droughts in various countries, energy shortages and food supply shortages have increased the uncertainty of global trade supply chains and price fluctuations. Because of procurement policy of the company adopts medium and long-term orders, pre-order, or if necessary, early purchase to ensure the source of goods, there's no immediate impact on the inventory of raw materials, and it also maintains an observation of the market situation at any time to deal with and reduce the impact of external factors.
3. Chemix Inc.: Not applicable.
4. Vetnostrum Animal Health Co., Ltd.:

Global shipping prices and the epidemic situation have not eased as expected in the short term. The green inflation has been triggered by the concept of ESG, countries have continued to ease monetary easing, and freight rates have soared., all of which has pushed inflation to record highs and feed prices have continued to rise, while pig prices have remained low. However, the major global supply chains are overly concentrated in China, resulting in China's policies such as carbon neutralization, leading to power and production restrictions, allowing supplies to affect the world. In response to the changing environment, the Corporation prepared a higher inventory level to avoid the impact of uncertain factors leading to the lack of materials for production and supply, and reduce the impact on operations.

Note 2: Formula for calculating the financial analysis:

1. Financial structure
 - (1) Debt-to-assets ratio = Total liabilities / Total assets.
 - (2) Ratio of long-term funds to real estate, plant and equipment = (Total equity + Non-current liabilities) / Net amount of real estate, plant and equipment.
2. Solvency
 - (1) Current ratio = Current assets / Current liabilities.
 - (2) Quick ratio = (Current assets - Inventory - Prepaid expenses) / Current liabilities.
 - (3) Interest coverage ratio = Income before tax and interest expenses / Interest expenses.
3. Operating ability
 - (1) Turnover rate of receivables (including accounts receivable and notes receivable arising from the operation) = Net sales / Average balance of receivables (including accounts receivable and notes receivable arising from the operation) for each period.
 - (2) Average collection days = 365 / Receivables turnover ratio.
 - (3) Inventory turnover ratio = Cost of goods sold / Average inventory.
 - (4) Payables (including accounts payable and notes payable due to business operations) turnover ratio = Cost of goods sold / Balance of average payables (including accounts payable and notes payable due to business operations).
 - (5) Average days for sale = 365 / Inventory turnover ratio.
 - (6) Property, plant and equipment turnover ratio = Net sales / Average net property, plant and equipment.
 - (7) Total asset turnover ratio = Net sales / Average total assets.
4. Profitability
 - (1) Return rate on assets = [After-tax profit or loss + Interest expense × (1 - tax rate)] / Average total assets.
 - (2) Return on equity = Net income after tax / Average total equity.
 - (3) Net profit margin = Net income after tax / Net sales.
 - (4) Earnings per share = (Net income attributable to owners of parent company - Dividends on preferred shares) / Weighted average number of shares issued. (Note 3)
5. Cash Flow
 - (1) Cash flow ratio = Net cash flow from operating activities / Current liabilities.
 - (2) Net cash flow adequacy ratio = Net cash flow from operating activities for the most recent five years / (Capital expenditures + Inventory increase + Cash dividends) for the most recent five years.
 - (3) Cash reinvestment ratio = (Net cash flow from operating activities - Cash dividends) / (Gross property, plant and equipment + Long-term investments + Other non-current assets + Working capital). (Note 4)
6. Leverage:
 - (1) Operating leverage = (Net operating income - Variable operating costs and expenses) / Operating profit. (Note 5)
 - (2) Financial leverage = Operating interest / (Operating interest - Interest expense).

Note 3: Special attention shall be paid to the following matters when using the formula of Earnings Per Share above:

1. Based on the weighted average number of common shares, not on the year-end number of outstanding shares.
2. In case of capital increase in cash or treasury share transactions, the weighted average number of shares shall be calculated, taking into account the period in circulation.
3. In the case of conversion of earnings to capital increase or conversion of capital reserve to the capital increase, the calculation of earnings per share of previous years and semi-years shall be adjusted retroactively according to the proportion of capital increase, without taking into account the issuing period of such capital increase.
4. If the preferred stocks are non-convertible cumulative, the dividend of the current year (whether paid or not) shall be deducted from the net profit after tax or increase the net loss after tax. If preferred stocks are non-cumulative in nature, where net income after tax is available, dividends on preferred shares shall be deducted from net income after tax. No adjustment is required if the Corporation has loss after tax.

Note 4: Special attention shall be paid to the following matters for cash flow analysis:

1. Net cash flow from operating activities refers to the net cash inflow from operating activities in the cash flow statement.
2. Capital expenditure refers to the annual cash outflow for capital investments.
3. The inventory increase is only taken into account when the ending balance is greater than the beginning balance. If the inventory decreases at the end of the year, it shall be calculated as zero.
4. Cash dividends include cash dividends of common shares and preferred stocks.
5. The gross amount of real estate, plant, and equipment means the total value of real estate, plant, and equipment before accumulated depreciation.

Note 5: The issuer shall classify operating costs and operating expenses as fixed or variable by their nature. If estimation or subjective judgment is involved, attention shall be paid to its reasonableness and consistency.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Consolidated Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and the IFRSs as endorsed and issued into effect by the FSC, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to ensure the preparation of consolidated financial statements that are free from material misstatements, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Group's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing related matters, and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management intends to liquidate the Group or cease operations or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance, including the Audit Committee, are responsible for overseeing the Group's financial reporting process.

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatements, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the auditing standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the consolidated financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the auditing standards, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatements of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and relevant disclosures made by management.
4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusion is based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.
5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure, and content of the consolidated financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
6. Obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision, and performance of the audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the Group's consolidated financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2022 and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our audit report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

4. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

(1) Statement of Compliance

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and the IFRSs as endorsed and issued into effect by the FSC.

(2) Basis of Preparation

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared on the historical cost basis except for financial instruments which are measured at fair values, and net defined benefit liabilities which are measured at the present value of the defined benefit obligation less the fair value of plan assets.

The fair value measurements, which are grouped into Levels 1 to 3 based on the degree to which the fair value measurement inputs are observable and based on the significance of the inputs to the fair value measurement in its entirety, are described as follows:

- 1) Level 1 inputs are quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities;
- 2) Level 2 inputs are inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (i.e., as prices) or indirectly (i.e., derived from prices); and
- 3) Level 3 inputs are unobservable inputs for the asset or liability.

(3) Classification of current and non-current assets and liabilities

Current assets include:

- 1) Assets held primarily for trading purposes;
- 2) Assets expected to be realized within 12 months after the balance sheet date; and
- 3) Cash and cash equivalents, excluding those that are restricted for being used to exchange or settle liabilities beyond 12 months after the balance sheet date.

Current liabilities include:

- 1) Liabilities held primarily for trading purposes;

- 2) Liabilities due to be settled within 12 months after the balance sheet date (liabilities with long-term refinancing or rearrangement of payment terms completed after the balance sheet date and before the publication of the financial statements are also deemed as current liabilities); and
- 3) Liabilities with a repayment deadline that cannot be unconditionally deferred for at least 12 months after the balance sheet date. Terms of a liability that could, at the option of the counterparty, result in its settlement by the issuance of equity instruments, do not affect its classification.

The Group classifies all other assets or liabilities that are not specified above as non-current.

(4) Basis of consolidation

The consolidated financial statements incorporate the financial statements of the Corporation and the entities controlled by the Corporation (i.e., its subsidiaries).

Income and expenses of subsidiaries acquired or disposed of during the period are included in the consolidated statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income from the effective date of acquisition up to the effective date of disposal, as appropriate.

When necessary, adjustments are made to the financial statements of subsidiaries to bring their accounting policies into line with those used by the Corporation. All intra-group transactions, balances, income and expenses are eliminated in full upon consolidation. Total comprehensive income of subsidiaries is attributed to the owners of the Corporation and to the non-controlling interests even if this results in the non-controlling interests having a deficit balance.

Changes in the Group's ownership interests in subsidiaries that do not result in the Group losing control over the subsidiaries are accounted for as equity transactions. The carrying amounts of the Group's interests and the non-controlling interests are adjusted to reflect the changes in their relative interests in the subsidiaries. Any difference between the amount by which the non-controlling interests are adjusted and the fair value of the consideration paid or received is recognized directly in equity and attributed to the owners of the Corporation.

When the Group loses control of a subsidiary, the gain or loss on disposal is the difference between: (1) the aggregate of the fair value of the consideration received and the fair value of the remaining investment in the former subsidiary at the date of loss of control, and (2) the aggregate of the carrying amount of the assets (including goodwill) and liabilities of the former subsidiary and the non-controlling interests at the date of loss of control. The accounting treatment for amounts of the subsidiary shown in other comprehensive income or loss shall follow the same basis as that followed by the the Group for directly dispose of relevant assets or liabilities.

Please refer to Note 12 and Table 7 and 8 for details, shareholding ratio, and operations of subsidiaries.

(5) Foreign Currency

In preparation for individual financial statements, transactions in currencies other than the entity's functional currency (i.e., foreign currencies) are converted into functional currency at the rates of exchange prevailing at the dates of the transactions.

Monetary items denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the closing rates on the balance sheet date. Exchange differences arising on the settlement or on translating of monetary items are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they arise.

Non-monetary items measured at fair value that are denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the exchange rates prevailing at the date when the fair value was determined. The resulting exchange difference is recognized in profit or loss, except for items whose changes in fair value are recognized in other comprehensive income, where the resulting exchange difference is recognized in other comprehensive income.

Non-monetary items measured at historical cost that are denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the exchange rates prevailing on the transaction dates and are not re-translated.

The assets and liabilities of foreign operations (including foreign subsidiaries or subsidiaries using a currency different from the Corporation's) are translated into New Taiwan dollars at the rate of exchange prevailing on the balance sheet date. Income and expenses are translated at the average rate of the year. The exchange differences arising are recognized in other comprehensive income and attributable to the owners of the Corporation and non-controlling interests, respectively.

On the disposal of the entire interest in the foreign operation, or part of the interest in subsidiaries of the foreign operation with a loss of control, or when the retained interests upon the disposal of foreign operation's associates are financial assets and accounted for using the accounting policies for financial instruments, all of the accumulated exchange differences attributable to the owners of the Corporation and associated with the foreign operation are reclassified to profit or loss.

In relation to a partial disposal of a subsidiary that does not result in the Corporation losing control over the subsidiary, the proportionate share of accumulated exchange differences is reclassified to a non-controlling interest in that foreign operation but is not recognized in profit or loss. For all other situations of partial disposal of a foreign operation, the proportionate share of the accumulated exchange difference recognized in other comprehensive income is reclassified to profit or loss.

(6) Inventories

Inventories include raw materials, materials, finished goods, and work in progress. The value of inventory shall be determined based on the cost or net realizable value (NRV), whichever is lower. With the exception of inventory of the same category, individual items shall be assessed when comparing the cost and NRV. The NRV is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business, less the estimated cost of completion and the estimated costs necessary to make the sale. Cost of inventory is calculated using the weighted-average method.

(7) Investment in associates

Associates are companies on which the Group has significant influence, but they are not the Corporation's subsidiaries.

The Group follows the equity method for investments in associates.

Under the equity method, the investment is initially treated at cost and adjusted thereafter for the post-acquisition changes in the Group's share of profit or loss, share of other comprehensive income in associates, and changes in earnings distribution from associates. In addition, changes in the interests in associates are recognized based on the shareholding percentage.

Any excess of the cost of acquisition over the Group's share of the net fair value of the identifiable assets and liabilities of an associate recognized at the date of acquisition is recognized as goodwill, which is included within the carrying amount of the investment and shall not be amortized. Any excess of the Group's share of the net fair value of the identifiable assets and liabilities of an associate over the cost of acquisition is recognized immediately in profit or loss.

When an associate issues new shares, if the Group fails to subscribe according to the shareholding ratio, resulting in the change of shareholding ratio and the increase or decrease of the net equity value of the investment, the increase or decrease of the capital reserve shall be adjusted - the equity method is adopted to recognize the changes in the net equity value of the associate and the equity method is adopted for investment. However, if the Group fails to subscribe to or acquire new shares based on its shareholding ratio and causes its ownership interest in the associate to decrease, the amounts related to the associate recognized in other comprehensive income (loss) shall be decreased proportionally and reclassified on the accounting basis as would be required if the associate had directly disposed of the related assets or liabilities. If the aforementioned adjustment is required to be credited to capital surplus but the capital surplus derived from investment accounted for using equity method is not sufficient, the difference shall be temporarily credited to retained earnings.

When the Group's share of losses of an associate equals or exceeds its interest in that associate (including any carrying amount of the investment accounted for using the equity method and long-term interests that, in substance, form part of the Group's net investment in the associate), the Group shall cease recognition of further losses. The Group shall only recognize additional losses and liabilities within the scope of occurred legal obligations, constructive obligations, or payments made on behalf of the associate.

To assess impairment, the Group shall consider the overall carrying amount of the investment as a single asset to compare the recoverable and carrying amounts for the impairment test. The recognized impairment shall not be allocated to any asset that constitutes part of the carrying amount of the investment. Any reversal of the impairment loss is recognized only to the extent of the subsequent increases in the recoverable amount of investment.

The Group shall suspend the use of the equity method on the day that its investment is no longer an associate and shall measure its retained equity in the original associate through fair value. The difference between the fair value, the disposal proceeds, and the carrying amount of the investment on the day the equity method ceases to apply shall be recognized in the profit or loss of the current period. In addition, the Group treats the amounts in relation to the associate as recognized in other comprehensive income on the same accounting basis as would be required if such assets or liabilities had been directly disposed of by the associate. For investment in associates that turns them into joint ventures, the Group shall continue to use the equity method and shall not reassess retained equity.

Profit or loss arising from upstream and downstream transactions between the Group and the associates or side-stream transactions between associates needs to be recognized in the consolidated financial statements to the extent that such recognition shall not affect the interests of the Group in the associates.

(8) Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment is recognized at cost and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment.

Property, plant and equipment under construction is recognized at cost less accumulated impairment loss. The cost shall include professional service expenses and the borrowing costs eligible for capitalization. Such assets shall be classified into appropriate property, plant and equipment categories upon completion and reaching the expected use status, and then be depreciated.

Freehold land is not depreciated, the depreciation of other property, plant and equipment in its useful life is made on a straight-line basis for each major part/component separately. The Group reviews the estimated useful lives, residual value, and depreciation methods at least once at each financial year-end and applies the changes in accounting estimates prospectively.

When property, plant and equipment is derecognized, the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset is recognized in profit or loss.

(9) Investment properties

Investment properties are real estate held for rent or capital appreciation or both. Investment properties also include land currently held whose future purpose is yet to be determined.

Investment properties owned by the Group are initially measured at cost (including transaction costs) and are subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses.

Depreciation is provided for investment properties on a straight-line basis.

In the event of derecognition of an investment property, the difference between its net disposal proceeds and carrying amount is recognized in profit or loss.

(10) Intangible assets

Intangible assets with definite useful lives that are acquired separately are initially measured at cost and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated amortization and accumulated impairment losses. The amortization of intangible assets in their useful lives is made on a straight-line basis. The Group reviews the estimated useful lives, residual value, and amortization methods at least once at each financial year-end and applies the changes in accounting estimates prospectively.

When intangible assets are derecognized, the difference between their net disposal proceeds and carrying amount is recognized in profit or loss.

(11) Impairment of property, plant and equipment, right-of-use assets, investment properties, and intangible assets (except goodwill)

On each balance sheet date, the Group evaluates whether there is any indication that its property, plant and equipment, right-of-use assets, investment properties, and intangible assets (except goodwill) have suffered impairment losses. If there is an indication that an asset may be impaired, then the Group estimates the recoverable amount of such asset. If it is not possible to estimate the recoverable amount of an individual asset, the Group determines the recoverable amount of the cash generating unit to which the asset belongs.

The recoverable amount is the fair value minus cost of sales or the value in use, whichever is higher. If the carrying amount of an individual asset or a cash generating unit is less than its recoverable amount, the carrying amount is reduced to its recoverable amount, with an impairment loss recognized in profit or loss.

If an impairment loss is reversed subsequently, the carrying amount of the asset or cash generating unit is raised to its recoverable amount, provided that the increased carrying amount shall not exceed the carrying amount (less amortization or depreciation) that would have been determined had no impairment loss been recognized in prior years. The reversed impairment loss shall be recognized in profit or loss.

(12) Non-Current Assets Held For Sale

Non-current assets are classified as held for sale if their carrying amounts are expected to be recovered mainly through sale rather than continuous usage. Non-current assets qualified for such classification must be available for immediate sale in their present condition and its sale must be highly probable. A sale is considered highly probable if management at an appropriate level commits to a plan to sell and such sale is expected to be completed within 12 months after the classification date.

Non-current assets held for sale are measured at the lower of carrying amount and fair value less costs to sell and are not depreciated.

(13) Financial Instruments

Financial assets and liabilities are recognized in the consolidated balance sheets when the Group becomes a party to the contract of the financial instrument.

Financial assets and liabilities are recognized initially based on fair value plus transaction costs of their acquisition or issuance, if they are not measured at fair value through profit or loss. For financial assets and liabilities that are measured at fair value through profit or loss, such transaction costs are recognized immediately in profit or loss.

1) Financial Assets

Regular trading of financial assets is recognized or derecognized in accordance with trade date accounting.

a. Types of measurement

Financial assets held by the Group are financial assets at fair value through profit or loss, financial assets measured at amortized cost, and investments in equity instruments measured at fair value through other comprehensive income.

(a) Financial Assets At Fair Value Through Profit Or Loss

Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are financial assets mandatorily measured at fair value through profit or loss. Such assets include investments in instruments in equity instruments that are not designated by the Group to be measured at fair value through other comprehensive income and investments in debt instruments that fail to meet the criteria as to be measured at amortized cost or at fair value through other comprehensive income.

Such assets are measured at fair value, of which any remeasurement gains or losses are recognized in profit or loss. Please refer to Note 32 for the determination of fair value.

(b) Financial Assets At Amortized Cost

When the Group's investments in financial assets satisfy the following two conditions simultaneously, they are classified as financial assets at amortized cost:

- a) Held under a business model whose purpose of holding such financial assets is to collect the contractual cash flows; and
- b) The contractual terms give rise to cash flows on specified dates that are solely payments of principal and interest on the principal amount outstanding.

Subsequent to initial recognition, such assets (including cash and cash equivalents and financial assets measured at amortized cost, notes receivable, accounts receivable (included related parties), other receivables, restricted assets, and refundable deposits) are measured at amortized cost equal to the gross carrying amount as determined using the effective interest method less any impairment loss; any foreign exchange gain or loss arising therefrom is recognized in profit or loss.

Except for the following two circumstances, interest income is calculated by multiplying an effective interest rate by the gross carrying amount of such assets:

- a) In the case of purchased or originated credit-impaired financial assets, interest revenue is recognized by applying the credit-adjusted effective interest rate to the amortized cost.
- b) In the case of a financial asset that is not a purchased or originated credit-impaired financial asset but subsequently has become credit-impaired, interest income is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to the amortized cost from the reporting period following the credit impairment.

Credit-impaired financial assets are those where the issuer or debtor has experienced major financial difficulties or defaults, the debtor is likely to claim bankruptcy or other financial restructuring, or disappearance of an active market for the financial asset due to financial difficulties.

Cash equivalents comprise time deposits that will mature within 3 months after the acquisition date, that are highly liquid and readily convertible to known amount of cash, and that are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value. Cash equivalents are used to satisfy short-term cash commitments.

- (c) Investments in equity instruments measured at fair value through other comprehensive income

The Group may, at initial recognition, make an irrevocable election to designate an equity instrument that is neither held for trading nor contingent consideration arising from a business combination to be measured at fair value through other comprehensive income.

Investments in an equity instrument measured at fair value through other comprehensive income are measured at fair value, and any subsequent fair value changes are recognized in other comprehensive income and accumulated in other equity. The cumulative gain or loss will not be reclassified to profit or loss upon their disposal; instead, they will be transferred to retained earnings.

Dividends of investments in equity instruments measured at fair value through other comprehensive income are recognized in profit or loss when the Group's right to receive payment is established, unless such dividends clearly represent the recovery of a part of the investment cost.

- b. Impairment of financial assets

The Group evaluates credit losses on financial assets at amortized cost (including accounts receivable) based on the expected credit loss (ECL) at each balance sheet date.

Loss allowances are recognized against accounts receivable based on the expected credit loss during the term of duration. For all other financial instruments, the Group recognizes their loss allowance at an amount equal to 12-month expected credit losses if their credit risk has not increased significantly since initial recognition, or otherwise their lifetime expected credit losses.

An ECL is a weighted average credit loss with the risks of default as weights. The 12-month ECL on a financial instrument represents the portion of its lifetime ECL that is expected to result from possible default events within 12 months after the reporting date, whereas the lifetime ECL represents the ECL that will result from all possible default events over the expected life of a financial instrument.

The impairment loss of all financial assets is reduced based on the allowance account.

c. Derecognition of financial assets

The Group de-recognizes the financial assets when the contractual rights to the cash inflow from the asset expire or when the Group transfers all the risks and rewards of ownership of the financial assets to other enterprises substantially.

On derecognition of a financial asset at amortized cost in its entirety, the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the sum of the consideration received is recognized in profit or loss. On derecognition of debt instruments measured at fair value through other comprehensive income in its entirety, the difference between the financial asset's carrying amount and the sum of the consideration received and the cumulative gain or loss that had been recognized in other comprehensive income is recognized in profit or loss. The cumulative gain or loss will not be reclassified to profit or loss on derecognition of an equity instrument at fair value through other comprehensive income in its entirety; instead, it will be transferred to retained earnings.

2) Equity instruments

The debt and equity instruments issued by the Group are classified as financial liabilities or equity according to the substance of the contractual agreement and the definition of financial liabilities and equity instruments.

Equity instruments issued by the Group shall be recognized at the amount equal to the consideration received less the direct issue costs.

Repurchase of the Group's equity instruments is recognized in or deducted from equity, the carrying amount is calculated by weighted average based on the type of stock. The purchase, sale, issuance, or write-off of the Corporation's equity instruments are not recognized in profit or loss.

3) Financial Liabilities

a. Subsequent measurement

All financial liabilities of the Group are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method.

b. Derecognition of financial liabilities

When a financial liability is de-recognized, the difference between its carrying amount and the paid consideration (including any transferred non-cash assets or liabilities assumed) shall be recognized in profit or loss.

(14) Revenue recognition

After identifying the performance obligations of contracts with the customers, the Group allocates the transaction price to the performance obligations and recognizes revenue when performance obligations are met.

Revenue from sales of commodity comes from the sales of medicine. When medicine is delivered to and arrives at a customer's specified location, the customer has the right to set the price and use the product, takes the primary responsibility for resale, and bears the risk of obsolescence. Therefore, revenue and accounts receivable are recognized at that time.

The customer loyalty program gives customers reward points upon purchases for future purchases or redemption of the products. These reward points provide important rights. Contract liabilities are recognized when the transaction price allocated to the reward points is collected, and reclassified to revenue when the reward points are redeemed or expire.

When the material is in processed, control of the processed products is not transferred and the amount of the control is not recognized.

(15) Lease

The Group evaluates whether a contract is (or includes) a lease on the contract establishment date.

1) The Group as a lessor

Leases in which the lessee assumes substantially all of the risks and rewards of ownership are classified as finance leases. All other leases are classified as operating leases.

Payments for operating leases less lease incentives are recognized during the relevant lease period as income based on the straight-line method.

When leases include land and building elements, the Group classifies them as finance or operating leases based on whether most risks and rewards from ownership of the elements have been transferred to the lessee. Lease payments are apportioned to land and buildings in proportion to the fair value of land and building lease rights on the contract establishment date. If lease payments can be apportioned reliably to these two elements, each element is treated according to the applicable lease classification. If lease payments cannot be apportioned reliably to these two elements, the entire lease is classified under finance leases. However, if both elements clearly meet the standards of operating leases, the entire lease is classified under operating leases.

2) The Group as a lessee

Except that payments for leases of low-value assets and short-term leases to which exemption is applicable are recognized as expenses on a straight-line basis over the lease term, other leases are recognized as right-of-use assets and lease liabilities on the lease start date.

Right-of-use assets are initially measured at cost (including the initially measured amount of lease liabilities, the lease payments paid before the lease start date less the lease incentives received, the initial direct cost, and the estimated cost of restoring underlying assets), and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, and the re-measurement of the lease liabilities are adjusted accordingly. Right-of-use assets are expressed separately in the consolidated balance sheets.

Right-of-use assets are depreciated on a straight-line basis from the inception of the lease to the end of the useful life or the expiration of the lease term, whichever is earlier.

Lease liabilities are initially measured at the present value of lease payments. When the interest rate implicit in a lease can be readily determined, lease payments are discounted using the interest rate. If the interest rate implicit in a lease cannot be easily determined, lease payments are discounted using the lessee's incremental borrowing rate.

Subsequently, lease liabilities are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method, and interest expenses are amortized over the lease term. The Group remeasures the lease liability and correspondingly adjusts the right-of-use asset, except in the case when the carrying amount of the right-of-use asset has reduced to zero, in which case any residual remeasured amount shall be recognized in profit or loss. For lease modifications that do not qualify as separate leases, the remeasurement of lease liabilities due to a reduced lease scope is to reduce the right-of-use asset, and the termination of the lease, in part or in all, is recognized in profit or loss. Lease liabilities are expressed separately in the consolidated balance sheets.

(16) Borrowing costs

Cost of loans directly attributable to acquisition, construction, or production of assets that meet requirements is considered as part of the cost of the asset until the asset reaches the stage of functional use or is ready for sale.

For special loans, incomes earned from short-term investments made prior to the qualifying capital expenditure are deducted from the cost of loans eligible for capitalization.

Other than stated above, all other borrowing costs are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they are incurred.

(17) Employee benefits

1) Short-term employee benefits

Liabilities related to short-term employee benefits are measured by the non-discounted amount expected to be paid in exchange for employee services.

2) Post-employment benefits

Payments that should be contributed to defined contribution retirement benefit plans are recognized as an expense when employees have rendered service.

The defined benefit cost under defined benefit retirement plans (including service cost, net interest, and the remeasurement amount) are calculated based on the projected unit credit method. The cost of services and the net interest of the net defined benefit liability (asset) are recognized as employee benefit expenses as they occur. Remeasurement (comprising actuarial gains and losses, and return on plan assets net of interests) is recognized in other comprehensive income and included in retained earnings, and is not recycled to profit or loss in subsequent periods.

The net defined benefit liabilities (assets) are the shortfall (surplus) of the defined benefit retirement plan. A net defined benefit asset shall not exceed the present value of the contributions to be refunded from the plan, or the reductions in future contributions.

3) Long-term employee benefits

Other long-term employee benefits have the same accounting treatment as the pension benefit in defined benefit plan, except that the relevant remeasurements are recognized in profit or loss.

(18) Share-Based Payment Agreement

Employee stock options granted to employees are based on the fair value of equity instruments on grant date and the best estimate of the expected value. The expenses are recognized on a straight-line basis over the vested period, and the capital surplus - employee stock options and non-controlling interests are adjusted at the same time. If it is vested at grant date, the expense is recognized in full at the same date. The date of approval by the Board of Directors of the Group is the grant date.

On each balance sheet date, The Group revises its estimate on the number of employee stock options expected to vest. If the original estimate is revised, the effect is recognized in profit or loss such that the cumulative expenses reflect the revised estimate, and the capital reserve –employee stock options and non-controlling interests are adjusted accordingly.

(19) Income Tax

Income tax expense represents the sum of the tax currently payable and deferred tax.

1) Current income tax

The Group determines the current income in accordance with the laws and regulations established by each income tax jurisdiction, and calculates the income tax payable based on it.

An additional tax is levied on the unappropriated earnings pursuant to the Income Tax Act of the Republic of China and is recorded as income tax expense in the year when the shareholders' meeting resolves to appropriate the earnings.

Adjustments to income tax payable from previous years are recognized in current income tax.

2) Deferred tax

Deferred tax is calculated based on the temporary difference between the carrying amount of the assets and liabilities and the taxable basis of the taxable income.

Deferred tax liabilities are generally recognized based on all taxable temporary differences. Deferred tax assets are recognized to the extent that it is probable that there is taxable income to be applied to temporary difference reductions.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognized for taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries and associates, except where the Corporation is able to control the reversal of the temporary difference and it is probable that the temporary difference will not reverse in the foreseeable future. For deductible temporary differences, when it is probable that sufficient taxable income will be available to realize such temporary difference, a deferred tax asset is recognized, but only to the extent of the amount that is expected to be reversed in the foreseeable future.

The carrying amount of a deferred tax asset is reviewed at each balance sheet date and is reduced when it becomes probable that sufficient taxable profit will no longer be available to recover all or part of the asset. The carrying amount of items that were not previously recognized as a deferred tax asset is also reviewed at each balance sheet date and is raised when it becomes probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available in the future to recover all or part of the asset.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rate of the year of expected settlement of liabilities or realization of assets. The rate is based on the tax rate and tax laws that have been enacted prior to the balance sheet date or have been substantially legislated. Measurement of deferred tax liabilities and assets is a reflection of the tax consequences resulting from the means by which the Group expects to recover or settle the carrying amount of its assets and liabilities at the balance sheet date.

3) Current income tax and deferred tax

Current income tax and deferred tax are recognized in profit or loss, except that for items associated with other comprehensive income or directly recognized in equity, such taxes are recognized in other comprehensive income or directly in equity separately.

5. Critical accounting Judgements and Key Sources of Estimation Uncertainty And Assumptions

In the application of the Group's accounting policies, management is required to make judgments, estimates, and assumptions based on historical experience and other critical factors for related information that are not readily available from other sources. Actual results may differ from original estimates.

The Group takes into account the recent development of COVID-19 in Taiwan and its possible impact on the economic environment in the estimation of cash flow, growth rate, discount rate, profitability and other relevant significant accounting estimates, and the management will constantly review the estimations and underlying assumptions. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognized in the year in which the estimate is revised if the revision affects only that year or in the year of the revision and future years if the revision affects both current and future years.

6. Cash and cash equivalents

	$ 51,556	$ 47,780

These investments in equity instruments are held for medium-term and long-term purposes and expected to make profits through long-term investments. Management elected to designate these investments to be measured at fair value through other comprehensive income as they believed that recognizing short-term fluctuations in these investments' fair value in profit or loss would not be consistent with the aforementioned strategy of holding these investments for long-term purposes.

10. Notes Receivable And Accounts Receivable

The average credit period for sale of goods was 75 to 120 days. Impairment loss recognized on accounts receivable is assessed based on individual assessment, aging analysis, historical experience, and analysis of customers' current financial position to estimate unrecoverable amounts.

Unless there is objective evidence showing that the accounts receivable of a specific counterparty are unrecoverable and an appropriate loss allowance is recognized individually, the loss allowance is set aside, in principle, based on the assessment carried out by the historical experience-collecting body, which categorizes customers into different risk groups and recognizes loss allowance according to the expected credit loss of each group.

The following table details the loss allowance of notes receivables and accounts receivable based on the Group's allowance matrix.

22. Retirement Benefit Plans

(1) Defined contribution plans

The pension system applicable to the Group under the "Labor Pension Act" is a defined contribution plan under government administration, to which the Group contributes 6% of employees' monthly salary and wages to their personal accounts at the Bureau of Labor Insurance. Under the aforementioned pension regulations, the Group recognized pension costs of NT$50,422 thousand and NT$54,391 thousand for the years ended December 31, 2022 and 2021, respectively.

(2) Defined benefit plans

The Group's pension system under the "Labor Standards Act" is a defined benefit pension plan managed by the government. Pension payment to an employee is calculated based on her/his number of service years and average salary/wage of the last 6 months prior to approved retirement. The Group contributes monthly an amount equal to 5% of the employees' monthly salaries and wages to a retirement fund that is deposited with Bank of Taiwan under the name of The Supervisory Committee of Workers' Retirement Fund. Before the end of year, if the balance at the retirement fund is not sufficient to pay employees who will meet the retirement criteria next year, a lump-sum deposit for the shortfall should be made before the end of March of the following year. The retirement fund is managed by the Bureau of Labor Funds, Ministry of Labor, and the Group does not have rights to influence its investment management strategy.

The funds for defined benefit plans included in the consolidated balance sheets are as follows:

	December 31, 2022	December 31, 2021

The Group has the following risks owing to the implementation of the pension system under the "Labor Standards Act":

- 1) Investment risk: The pension funds are invested in local and foreign equity and debt securities, bank deposits, etc. The investment is conducted at the discretion of the Bureau of Labor Funds, Ministry of Labor, or through its designated agencies. However, the rate of return on plan assets shall not be less than the average interest rate on a two-year time deposit published by the local banks.
- 2) Interest rate risk: A decrease in the government bond interest rate will increase the present value of the defined benefit obligation. However, the return on the debt investments of the plan assets will also increase. Those two will partially offset each other.
- 3) Payroll risk: The present value of the defined benefit obligation is calculated by reference to the future salary of plan participants. Therefore, an increase in salaries of the members of the plan will increase the present value of defined benefit obligations.

The present value of the Group's defined benefit obligations is calculated by certified actuaries and the major assumptions on the measurement date are as follows:

	December 31, 2022	December 31, 2021
Discount rate	1.25%~1.40%	0.65%~0.70%
Expected growth rate of salary	2.00%	2.00%

If reasonable changes occur in major actuarial assumptions respectively with other assumptions unchanged, the present value of defined benefit obligations will increase (decrease) as follows:

	December 31, 2022	December 31, 2021
Discount rate
Increase by 0.25%	($ 9,366)	($ 9,162)

Increase by 1%	$ 40,390	$ 39,790
Decrease by 1%	($ 35,476)	($ 34,659)

As actuarial assumptions may be related to one another, the likelihood of fluctuation in a single assumption is not high. Therefore, the aforementioned sensitivity analysis may not reflect the actual fluctuations of the present value of defined benefit obligations.

The Group makes monthly contributions to the pensions provided for its appointed managers at 1% of their gross salaries. Under the aforementioned pension regulations, the Group recognized pension costs of NT$5,542 thousand and NT$5,296 thousand for the years ended December 31, 2022 and 2021, respectively. As of December 31, 2022 and 2021, other employee benefit liabilities provided for appointed managers amounted to NT$57,885 thousand and NT$52,343 thousand, respectively.

Note 1. According to Article 30, paragraph 4 of the Business Mergers and Acquisitions Act, when a company becomes a wholly-owned subsidiary of another company through share swap between the two companies, although its unappropriated retained earnings are recognized as capital reserve of another company (i.e. holding company) due to the share swap, its earnings appropriation is not restricted by Article 241, paragraph 1 of The Company Act. Additionally, according to Order Jing-Shang-Zi No. 09402428670 dated December 15, 2005, the capital reserve of a holding company can be appropriated as cash dividends if it was the unappropriated retained earnings of a subsidiary before share swap between a holding company and a subsidiary. Further, according to Order Tai-Cai-Rong-(1)-Zi No. 0910016280, as such capital surplus does not result from operation of a holding company, the above statement does not extend to employees' compensation and remuneration of directors and supervisors.

Note 2. Such capital surplus may be used to offset a deficit; in addition, when the Corporation has no deficit, such capital surplus may be distributed as cash dividends or transferred to share capital (limited to a certain percentage of the Corporation's capital surplus and to once a year).

Note 3. Such capital surplus arises from the effects of changes in ownership interests in subsidiaries and associates resulting from equity transactions other than actual disposals or acquisitions or from changes in capital surplus of subsidiaries and associates accounted for using the equity method.

(3) Retained earnings and dividend policy

In accordance with the Corporation's Articles of Incorporation, current year's earnings shall be distributed in the following order:

- 1) Tax payments in accordance with laws.
- 2) Offset prior years' losses.
- 3) Set aside 10% of remaining amount as legal reserve;
- 4) Recognition or appropriation for special reserve return earnings in accordance with laws and regulations.
- 5) For the payment dividends, if there is no surplus, the dividends shall not be paid with capital stock.
- 6) Appropriation of the remainder plus the accumulated unappropriated retained earnings of prior year shall be proposed by the board of directors and resolved by the shareholders.

Dividends appropriation shall be proposed by the board of directors during its meeting, with the amount between 10% to 90% of the accumulated unappropriated retained earnings. Of the total dividends, cash dividends shall account for 20% or greater of the total dividends distributed. Please refer to Note 25 (7) "Remuneration for Employees and Directors" for the policy of employee and director bonus distribution stipulated in the Articles of Incorporation of the Company.

The Corporation's dividend policy is as follows:

As the Corporation operates in a volatile business environment and is in the stable growth stage, dividends would be distributed in the form of capitalization of earnings, capitalization of capital reserve and cash. Low cash dividend policy would be adopted when any investment would be conducted and can increase the Corporation's profitability; in this case, dividends would be distributed in the form of capitalization of earnings or capital reserve. High cash dividend policy would be adopted when capital expansion has affected the Corporation's profitability.

The legal reserve shall be exclusively used to cover accumulated deficit, to issue new stocks or distribute cash to shareholders in proportion to their share ownership. The use of legal reserve for the issuance of stocks or cash dividends to shareholders in proportion to their share ownership is permitted provided that the balance of such reserve exceeds 25% of the Corporation's paid-in capital.

In accordance with the regulations, the Corporation shall set aside special reserve from the debit balance on other equity items at the balance sheet date before distributing earnings. When debit balance on other equity items is reversed subsequently, the reversed amount could be included in the distributable earnings.

The amounts previously set aside by the Corporation as special reserve on initial application of the IFRSs in accordance with Financial Supervisory Commission order No. 1010012865 dated April 6, 2012 shall be reversed proportionately when the relevant assets are used, disposed of or reclassified subsequently. Such amounts are reversed upon disposal or reclassified if the assets are investment property of land, and reversed over the use period if the assets are investment property other than land.

The appropriations of earnings for 2021 and 2020, which were proposed and approved in the shareholders' meetings on May 24, 2022 and July 20, 2021, were as follows:

(4) Financial risk management objectives and policies

The Group's day-to-day business activities may expose it to financial risks, including market risk (foreign exchange risk, interest rate risk and other price risk), credit risk, and liquidity risk. The Group's overall risk management policy focuses on steady management and does not seek to minimize potential adverse effects on the Group's financial position and financial performance. While using derivative financial instruments to hedge certain risk exposures.

1) Market risk

The main financial risks borne by the Group are currency risks (refer to (a) below), the risk of changes in interest rates (refer to (b) below) and other price risks (refer to (c) below)

The Group's exposure to market risks of financial instruments and its management and measurement of such exposure remain unchanged.

a. Currency risk

The carrying amounts of the Group's foreign currency denominated monetary assets and monetary liabilities on the balance sheet date are set out in Note 36.

Sensitivity analysis

The Group is exposed mainly to exchange rate and USD, RMB and JPY.

The sensitivity analysis included the outstanding foreign currency denominated monetary items and adjusts the translation at the end of the reporting period for a 1% change in foreign currency rates.

The positive amount in the table below indicates the amount that will reduce the profit before tax when NTD appreciates by 1% against the relevant currencies; when NTD depreciates by 1% against the relevant foreign currency, its impact on the profit before tax or interests will be a negative number of the same amount.

Impact on profit or loss	2022	2021
USD	$ 12,820	$ 2,491
RMB	1,043	1,179
JPY	253	(818)

In management's opinion, sensitivity analysis was unrepresentative of the inherent foreign exchange risk. The exposure at the end of the reporting period did not reflect the exposure during the period because sales are seasonal.

b. Interest rate risk

The Group is exposed to interest rate risk because entities in The Group borrow funds at both fixed and floating rate.

The carrying amounts of financial assets and financial liabilities of The Group exposed to interest rate risk on the balance sheet date are as follows:

	December 31, 2022	December 31, 2021
Fair value interest rate risk
- Financial assets	$ 10,000	$ 12,000
- Financial liabilities	28,240	28,700
Cash flow interest rate risk
- Financial assets	1,952,223	1,179,290
- Financial liabilities	1,801,522	2,697,396

Sensitivity analysis

The sensitivity analysis below was determined based on the Group's exposure to interest rates for both derivative and non-derivative instruments on the balance sheet date. For floating rate liabilities, the analysis was prepared assuming the amount of each liability outstanding at the end of the reporting period.

If the interest rate increases/decreases by 10 basis points, with other variables held constant, the Group's profit before income tax will increase/decrease by NT$151 thousand and increase/decrease by NT$1,518 thousand for the years ended December 31, 2022 and 2021, respectively.

c. Other price risks

The Group was exposed to equity price risk through its investments in listed equity securities. Equity investments are held for strategic rather than trading purposes. The Group does not actively trade these investments. The Group adopts sensitivity analysis to measure the equity price risk.

Sensitivity analysis

The sensitivity analysis below is determined based on the exposure to equity price risk on the balance sheet date.

If equity prices had been 1% higher/lower, the pre-tax other comprehensive income for the year ended December 31, 2022 and 2021 would increase/decrease by NT$516 thousand and NT$478 thousand, respectively, as a result of the changes in financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income.

2) Credit risk

Credit risk refers to the risk that a counterparty will default on its contractual obligations resulting in financial loss to the Group. As at the end of the reporting period, the Group's maximum exposure to credit risk which will cause a financial loss to the Group due to failure of counterparties to discharge an obligation could arise from the carrying amount of the respective recognized financial assets as stated in the consolidated balance sheets.

The accounts receivable of the Group cover a large number of customers and spread across different industries and geographical regions. The Group continuously evaluates the business and financial status of the customers and monitors the collection of accounts receivable.

The credit risk on liquid funds and derivatives was limited because the counterparties are banks with high credit ratings assigned by international credit-rating agencies.

3) Liquidity risk

Cash flow forecasting is performed by each operating entity of the Group and compiled by the Group's finance department. The Group's finance department monitors rolling forecasts of the group's liquidity requirements to ensure it has sufficient cash to meet operational needs. Such forecasting takes into consideration the Group's debt financing plans, covenant compliance, and compliance with internal balance sheet ratio targets.

a. Table of liquidity of non-derivative financial liabilities and interest risk

The following table details The Group's remaining contractual maturity for its non-derivative financial liabilities with agreed repayment periods. The tables had been drawn up based on the undiscounted cash flows of financial liabilities from the earliest date on which The Group can be required to pay.

The chief operating decision maker considers the business from a geographic perspective, and divides reportable operating segments into four areas of business in Taiwan, USA, Mainland China and Japan. The Group derives its revenue primarily from the manufacturing and sale of pharmaceuticals and cosmetics.

In our opinions, based on our audit results and the audit reports of other auditors (please refer to the Other Matters section of our report), the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of YungShin Global Holding Corporation as of December 31, 2022, and 2021, and its parent company only financial performance and its cash flows from January 1 to December 31, 2022, and 2021 in accordance with the Regulations Governing Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Auditing and Attestation of Financial Statements by Certified Public Accountants and General Accepted Auditing Standards (GAAS). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Corporation in accordance with the Code of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountants in the Republic of China (the Code), and we have fulfilled our other responsibilities in accordance with the Code. Based on our audit results and the audit reports of other auditors, we believe that the audit evidence obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Key Audit Matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgment, were of most significance in our audit of the Corporation's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2022. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon, and we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

Key audit matters for the Corporation's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2022 are stated as follows:

Investment under equity method - subsidiaries' operating revenue from major customers

The net operating revenue for the year ended December 31, 2022 was mainly attributable to the share of profit or loss of subsidiaries accounted for using equity method amounting to NT$915,448 thousand, representing 97.70% of the net operating revenue. The effect of share of profit or loss of Corporation was mainly attributable to the operating revenue of subsidiaries. For the year ended December 31, 2022, subsidiaries' operating revenue from major growing amounted to NT$3,125,772 thousand, accounting for 42.75% of consolidated operating revenue. As the amount of revenue from growing was significant, revenue from growing was identified as a key audit matter for the year ended December 31, 2022. Please refer to Note 4 to the consolidated financial statements for an explanation of the accounting policy on revenue recognition.

The main audit procedures for the aforementioned key audit matters are as follows:

1. Understood and tested the design and effectiveness of internal controls for operating revenue.
2. Sampling basis, whether freight bills were signed to acknowledge the receipt and were consistent with the invoices in terms of products and quantities and the amounts of revenue recognized.
3. Reviewed the reasonableness of the collection of accounts receivable and confirmed whether the accounts and amounts of receivable were consistent with the recognition of revenue.

Other Matters

Included in the financial statements, the financial statements of some investees companies accounted for using the equity method for the year ended December 31, 2022 were audited by other auditors. Therefore, our opinion on the parts in relation to investments in the aforementioned corporations accounted for using equity method, share of profit or loss of subsidiaries and associates accounted for using equity method, and share of other comprehensive income of subsidiaries and associates accounted for using equity method, and information on investees was solely based on the audit opinion of other auditors. As of December 31, 2022 and 2021, the balance of investments in the aforementioned associates using equity method was NT$2,695,243 thousand and NT$1,613,189 thousand, accounting for 35.79% and 22.27% of the total assets, respectively. The comprehensive income of the associates from January 1 to December 31, 2022, and 2021 amounted to NT$236,609 thousand, and NT$75,037 thousand, accounting for 26.66% and 11.35% of the total comprehensive income, respectively.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to ensure the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatements, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Corporation's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing related matters, and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management intends to liquidate the Corporation or cease operations or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance, including the Audit Committee, are responsible for overseeing the Corporation's financial reporting process.

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatements, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an audit report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the auditing standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the auditing standards, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatements of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Corporation's internal control.
3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and relevant disclosures made by management.
4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Corporation's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusion is based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Corporation to cease to continue as a going concern.
5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure, and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
6. Obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Corporation to express an opinion on the financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision, and performance of the audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2022 and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our audit report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

4. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

(1) Statement of Compliance

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers.

(2) Basis of Preparation

The financial statements have been prepared on the historical cost basis.

The fair value measurements, which are grouped into Levels 1 to 3 based on the degree to which the fair value measurement inputs are observable and based on the significance of the inputs to the fair value measurement in its entirety, are described as follows:

- 1) Level 1 inputs are quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities;
- 2) Level 2 inputs are inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (i.e., as prices) or indirectly (i.e., derived from prices); and
- 3) Level 3 inputs are unobservable inputs for the asset or liability.

The Corporation accounts for investments in subsidiaries and associates using the equity method in the preparation of the financial statements. To ensure consistency between the current year's profit or loss, other comprehensive profit or loss, and equity in the financial statements and the current year's profit or loss, other comprehensive profit or loss, and equity attributable to owners of the Corporation in the Corporation's consolidated financial statements, accounting treatment differences under the and consolidated basis were adjusted through "Equity-accounted investments," "Share of profits of subsidiaries and associates accounted for using equity method," and "Share of other comprehensive income of subsidiaries and associates accounted for using equity method" and other related equity items.

(3) Classification of current and non-current assets and liabilities

Current assets include:

- 1) Assets held primarily for trading purposes;
- 2) Assets expected to be realized within 12 months after the balance sheet date; and

- 3) Cash and cash equivalents, excluding those that are restricted for being used to exchange or settle liabilities beyond 12 months after the balance sheet date.

Current liabilities include:

- 1) Liabilities held primarily for trading purposes;
- 2) Liabilities due to be settled within 12 months after the balance sheet date (liabilities with long-term refinancing or rearrangement of payment terms completed after the balance sheet date and before the publication of the financial statements are also deemed as current liabilities); and
- 3) Liabilities with a repayment deadline that cannot be unconditionally deferred for at least 12 months after the balance sheet date. Terms of a liability that could, at the option of the counterparty, result in its settlement by the issuance of equity instruments, do not affect its classification.

The Corporation classifies all other assets or liabilities that are not specified above as non-current.

(4) Foreign Currency

The Corporation prepares financial statements, traders of currencies (foreign currencies) other than the functional currency of the Corporation shall convert them into functional currency records according to the exchange rate of the trading date.

Monetary items denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the closing rates on the balance sheet date. Exchange differences arising on the settlement or on translating of monetary items are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they arise.

Non-monetary items measured at fair value that are denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the exchange rates prevailing at the date when the fair value was determined. The resulting exchange difference is recognized in profit or loss, except for items whose changes in fair value are recognized in other comprehensive income, where the resulting exchange difference is recognized in other comprehensive income.

Non-monetary items measured at historical cost that are denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the exchange rates prevailing on the transaction dates and are not re-translated.

The assets and liabilities of foreign operations (including foreign subsidiaries or subsidiaries using a currency different from the Corporation's) are translated into New Taiwan dollars at the rate of exchange prevailing on the balance sheet date. Income and expenses are translated at the average rate of the period. The exchange differences arising are recognized in other comprehensive income.

(5) Investment in subsidiaries

The Corporation accounts for investments in subsidiaries using the equity method.

Subsidiaries are entities controlled by the Corporation.

Under the equity method, the investment is initially treated at cost and adjusted thereafter for the post-acquisition changes in the Corporation's share of profit or loss, share of other comprehensive income in subsidiaries, and changes in earnings distribution from subsidiaries. In addition, changes in other equity of the subsidiary attributable to the Corporation shall be recognized in accordance with the Corporation's shareholding percentage.

When a change in the Corporation's ownership interests in a subsidiary does not cause a loss of control over the subsidiary, it shall be treated as an equity transaction. The difference between the carrying amount of the investment and the fair value of consideration paid or collected shall be directly recognized in equity.

When the Corporation's share of losses of a subsidiary equals or exceeds its interest in that subsidiary (including any carrying amount of the investment accounted for by the equity method and long-term interests that, in substance, form part of the Corporation's net investment in the subsidiary), the Corporation shall continue to recognize losses based on the shareholding percentage.

Any excess of the cost of acquisition over the Corporation's share of the net fair value of the identifiable assets and liabilities of a subsidiary recognized at the date of acquisition is recognized as goodwill, which is included within the carrying amount of the investment and shall not be amortized. Any excess of the Corporation's share of the net fair value of the identifiable assets and liabilities of a subsidiary over the cost of acquisition is recognized immediately in profit or loss.

When the Corporation assesses impairment, the test shall be performed on the basis of cash generating unit within the financial statements. The recoverable amount and the carrying amount of cash generating unit shall be compared. If the recoverable amount of the asset later increases, the reversal of the impairment loss shall be recognized as profits, but the carrying amount of the asset after reversal of impairment loss shall not exceed the carrying amount of the asset before recognizing the impairment loss, net of amortization. Impairment loss attributable to goodwill shall not be reversed in subsequent periods.

In the event of the Corporation losing control of a subsidiary, the Corporation shall recognize the difference between the remaining investment in the subsidiary calculated through fair value on the date of the loss of control, the fair value of the remaining investment, and any disposal prices and fees, and the carrying amount of the investment on the date of the loss of control in profit or loss of the period. In addition, the accounting practices for amounts of the subsidiary shown in other comprehensive profit or loss shall follow the same basis as that followed by the Corporation for direct disposal of related assets or liabilities.

The unrealized profit or loss in downstream transactions between the Corporation and the subsidiary shall be eliminated in the financial statements. Profit or loss generated in upstream transactions between the Corporation and subsidiaries or transactions between subsidiaries shall only be recognized in the financial statements when it is not related to the Corporation's interest in the subsidiaries.

(6) Investment in associates

Associates are companies on which the Corporation has significant influence, but they are not the Corporation's subsidiaries.

The Corporation follows the equity method for investments in associates.

Under the equity method, the investment is initially treated at cost and adjusted thereafter for the post-acquisition changes in the Corporation's share of profit or loss, share of other comprehensive income in associates, and changes in earnings distribution from associates. In addition, changes in the interests in associates are recognized based on the shareholding percentage.

Any excess of the cost of acquisition over the Corporation's share of the net fair value of the identifiable assets and liabilities of an associate recognized at the date of acquisition is recognized as goodwill, which is included within the carrying amount of the investment and shall not be amortized. Any excess of the Corporation's share of the net fair value of the identifiable assets and liabilities of an associate over the cost of acquisition is recognized immediately in profit or loss.

When an associate issues new shares, if the Corporation fails to subscribe according to the shareholding ratio, resulting in the change of shareholding ratio and the increase or decrease of the net equity value of the investment, the increase or decrease of the capital reserve shall be adjusted - the equity method is adopted to recognize the changes in the net equity value of the associate and the equity method is adopted for investment. However, if the Corporation fails to subscribe to or acquire new shares based on its shareholding ratio and causes its ownership interest in the associate to decrease, the amounts related to the associate recognized in other comprehensive income (loss) shall be decreased proportionally and reclassified on the accounting basis as would be required if the associate had directly disposed of the related assets or liabilities. If the aforementioned adjustment is required to be credited to capital surplus but the capital surplus derived from investment accounted for using equity method is not sufficient, the difference shall be temporarily credited to retained earnings.

When the Corporation's share of losses of an associate equals or exceeds its interest in that associate (including any carrying amount of the investment accounted for using the equity method and long-term interests that, in substance, form part of the Corporation's net investment in the associate), the Corporation shall cease recognition of further losses. The Corporation shall only recognize additional losses and liabilities within the scope of occurred legal obligations, constructive obligations, or payments made on behalf of the associate.

To assess impairment, the Corporation shall consider the overall carrying amount of the investment as a single asset to compare the recoverable and carrying amounts for the impairment test. The recognized impairment shall not be allocated to any asset that constitutes part of the carrying amount of the investment. Any reversal of the impairment loss is recognized only to the extent of the subsequent increases in the recoverable amount of investment.

The Corporation shall suspend the use of the equity method on the day that its investment is no longer an associate and shall measure its retained equity in the original associate through fair value. The difference between the fair value, the disposal proceeds, and the carrying amount of the investment on the day the equity method ceases to apply shall be recognized in the profit or loss of the current period. In addition, the Corporation treats the amounts in relation to the associate as recognized in other comprehensive income on the same accounting basis as would be required if such assets or liabilities had been directly disposed of by the associate. For investment in associates that turns them into joint ventures, the Corporation shall continue to use the equity method and shall not reassess retained equity.

Profit or loss arising from upstream and downstream transactions between the Corporation and the associates or side-stream transactions between associates needs to be recognized in the financial statements to the extent that such recognition shall not affect the interests of the Corporation in the associates.

(7) Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment is recognized at cost and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment.

Property, plant and equipment under construction is recognized at cost less accumulated impairment loss. The cost shall include professional service expenses and the borrowing costs eligible for capitalization. Such assets shall be classified into appropriate property, plant and equipment categories upon completion and reaching the expected use status, and then be depreciated.

The depreciation of property, plant and equipment in its useful life is made on a straight-line basis for each major part/component separately. The Corporation reviews the estimated useful lives, residual value, and depreciation methods at least once at each financial year-end and applies the changes in accounting estimates prospectively.

When property, plant and equipment is derecognized, the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset is recognized in profit or loss.

(8) Intangible assets

Intangible assets with definite useful lives that are acquired separately are initially measured at cost and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated amortization and accumulated impairment losses. The amortization of intangible assets in their useful lives is made on a straight-line basis. The Corporation reviews the estimated useful lives, residual value, and amortization methods at least once at each financial year-end and applies the changes in accounting estimates prospectively.

When intangible assets are derecognized, the difference between their net disposal proceeds and carrying amount is recognized in profit or loss.

(9) Impairment of property, plant and equipment, right-of-use assets, and intangible assets (except goodwill)

On each balance sheet date, the Corporation evaluates whether there is any indication that its property, plant and equipment, right-of-use assets, and intangible assets (except goodwill) have suffered impairment losses. If there is an indication that an asset may be impaired, then the Corporation estimates the recoverable amount of such asset. If it is not possible to estimate the recoverable amount of an individual asset, the Corporation determines the recoverable amount of the cash generating unit to which the asset belongs.

The recoverable amount is the fair value minus cost of sales or the value in use, whichever is higher. If the carrying amount of an individual asset or a cash generating unit is less than its recoverable amount, the carrying amount is reduced to its recoverable amount, with an impairment loss recognized in profit or loss.

If an impairment loss is reversed subsequently, the carrying amount of the asset or cash generating unit is raised to its recoverable amount, provided that the increased carrying amount shall not exceed the carrying amount (less amortization or depreciation) that would have been determined had no impairment loss been recognized in prior years. The reversed impairment loss shall be recognized in profit or loss.

(10) Financial Instruments

Financial assets and liabilities are recognized in the balance sheets when the Corporation becomes a party to the contract of the financial instrument.

Financial assets and liabilities are recognized initially based on fair value plus transaction costs of their acquisition or issuance, if they are not measured at fair value through profit or loss. For financial assets and liabilities that are measured at fair value through profit or loss, such transaction costs are recognized immediately in profit or loss.

1) Financial Assets

Regular trading of financial assets is recognized or derecognized in accordance with trade date accounting.

a. Types of measurement

Financial assets held by the Corporation are financial assets measured at amortized cost.

Financial Assets At Amortized Cost

When the Corporation's investments in financial assets satisfy the following two conditions simultaneously, they are classified as financial assets at amortized cost:

- (a) Held under a business model whose purpose of holding such financial assets is to collect the contractual cash flows; and
- (b) The contractual terms give rise to cash flows on specified dates that are solely payments of principal and interest on the principal amount outstanding.

Subsequent to initial recognition, such assets (including cash and cash equivalents, financial assets measured at amortized cost and other receivables (including related parties) and refundable deposits) are measured at amortized cost equal to the gross carrying amount as determined using the effective interest method less any impairment loss; any foreign exchange gain or loss arising therefrom is recognized in profit or loss.

Except for the following two circumstances, interest income is calculated by multiplying an effective interest rate by the gross carrying amount of such assets:

- (a) In the case of purchased or originated credit-impaired financial assets, interest revenue is recognized by applying the credit-adjusted effective interest rate to the amortized cost.
- (b) In the case of a financial asset that is not a purchased or originated credit-impaired financial asset but subsequently has become credit-impaired, interest income is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to the amortized cost from the reporting period following the credit impairment.

Credit-impaired financial assets are those where the issuer or debtor has experienced major financial difficulties or defaults, the debtor is likely to claim bankruptcy or other financial restructuring, or disappearance of an active market for the financial asset due to financial difficulties.

Cash equivalents comprise time deposits that will mature within 3 months after the acquisition date, that are highly liquid and readily convertible to known amount of cash, and that are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value. Cash equivalents are used to satisfy short-term cash commitments.

b. Impairment of financial assets

The Corporation evaluates credit losses on financial assets at amortized cost (including accounts receivable) based on the expected credit loss (ECL) at each balance sheet date.

The impairment loss of all financial assets is reduced based on the allowance account.

c. Derecognition of financial assets

The Corporation de-recognizes the financial assets when the contractual rights to the cash inflow from the asset expire or when the Corporation transfers all the risks and rewards of ownership of the financial assets to other enterprises substantially.

On derecognition of a financial asset at amortized cost in its entirety, the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the sum of the consideration received is recognized in profit or loss. On derecognition of debt instruments measured at fair value through other comprehensive income in its entirety, the difference between the financial asset's carrying amount and the sum of the consideration received and the cumulative gain or loss that had been recognized in other comprehensive income is recognized in profit or loss. The cumulative gain or loss will not be reclassified to profit or loss on derecognition of an equity instrument at fair value through other comprehensive income in its entirety; instead, it will be transferred to retained earnings.

2) Equity instruments

The debt and equity instruments issued by the Corporation are classified as financial liabilities or equity according to the substance of the contractual agreement and the definition of financial liabilities and equity instruments.

Equity instruments issued by the Corporation shall be recognized at the amount equal to the consideration received less the direct issue costs.

Redemption of the Corporation's equity instruments is recognized in or deducted from equity, the carrying amount is calculated by weighted average based on the type of stock. The purchase, sale, issuance, or write-off of the Corporation's equity instruments are not recognized in profit or loss.

3) Financial Liabilities

a. Subsequent measurement

All financial liabilities of the Corporation are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method.

b. Derecognition of financial liabilities

When a financial liability is de-recognized, the difference between its carrying amount and the paid consideration (including any transferred non-cash assets or liabilities assumed) shall be recognized in profit or loss.

(11) Revenue recognition

After identifying the performance obligations of contracts with the customers, the Corporation allocates the transaction price to the performance obligations and recognizes revenue when performance obligations are met.

The primary business activity of the Corporation is to manage investees, with investment revenue and service revenue being the main sources of revenue.

(12) Lease

The Corporation evaluates whether a contract is (or includes) a lease on the contract establishment date.

The Corporation as a lessee

Except that payments for leases of low-value assets and short-term leases to which exemption is applicable are recognized as expenses on a straight-line basis over the lease term, other leases are recognized as right-of-use assets and lease liabilities on the lease start date.

Right-of-use assets are initially measured at cost (including the initially measured amount of lease liabilities, the lease payments paid before the lease start date less the lease incentives received, the initial direct cost, and the estimated cost of restoring underlying assets), and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, and the re-measurement of the lease liabilities are adjusted accordingly. Right-of-use assets are expressed separately in the balance sheets.

Right-of-use assets are depreciated on a straight-line basis from the inception of the lease to the end of the useful life or the expiration of the lease term, whichever is earlier.

Lease liabilities are initially measured at the present value of lease payments. When the interest rate implicit in a lease can be readily determined, lease payments are discounted using the interest rate. If the interest rate implicit in a lease cannot be easily determined, lease payments are discounted using the lessee's incremental borrowing rate.

Subsequently, lease liabilities are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method, and interest expenses are amortized over the lease term. The Corporation remeasures the lease liability and correspondingly adjusts the right-of-use asset, except in the case when the carrying amount of the right-of-use asset has reduced to zero, in which case any residual remeasured amount shall be recognized in profit or loss. Lease liabilities are expressed separately in the balance sheets.

(13) Borrowing costs

Cost of loans directly attributable to acquisition, construction, or production of assets that meet requirements is considered as part of the cost of the asset until the asset reaches the stage of functional use or is ready for sale.

For special loans, incomes earned from short-term investments made prior to the qualifying capital expenditure are deducted from the cost of loans eligible for capitalization.

Other than stated above, all other borrowing costs are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they are incurred.

(14) Employee benefits

1) Short-term employee benefits

Liabilities related to short-term employee benefits are measured by the non-discounted amount expected to be paid in exchange for employee services.

2) Post-employment benefits

Payments that should be contributed to defined contribution retirement benefit plans are recognized as an expense when employees have rendered service.

(15) Income Taxes

Income tax expense represents the sum of the tax currently payable and deferred tax.

1) Current income tax

An additional tax is levied on the unappropriated earnings pursuant to the Income Tax Act of the Republic of China and is recorded as income tax expense in the year when the shareholders' meeting resolves to appropriate the earnings.

Adjustments to income tax payable from previous years are recognized in current income tax.

2) Deferred tax

Deferred tax is calculated based on the temporary difference between the carrying amount of the assets and liabilities and the taxable basis of the taxable income.

Deferred tax liabilities are generally recognized based on all taxable temporary differences. Deferred tax assets are recognized to the extent that it is probable that there is taxable income to be applied to temporary difference reductions.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognized for taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries and associates, except where the Corporation is able to control the reversal of the temporary difference and it is probable that the temporary difference will not reverse in the foreseeable future. For deductible temporary differences, when it is probable that sufficient taxable income will be available to realize such temporary difference, a deferred tax asset is recognized, but only to the extent of the amount that is expected to be reversed in the foreseeable future.

The carrying amount of a deferred tax asset is reviewed at each balance sheet date and is reduced when it becomes probable that sufficient taxable profit will no longer be available to recover all or part of the asset. The carrying amount of items that were not previously recognized as a deferred tax asset is also reviewed at each balance sheet date and is raised when it becomes probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available in the future to recover all or part of the asset.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rate of the year of expected settlement of liabilities or realization of assets. The rate is based on the tax rate and tax laws that have been enacted prior to the balance sheet date or have been substantially legislated. Measurement of deferred tax liabilities and assets is a reflection of the tax consequences resulting from the means by which the Corporation expects to recover or settle the carrying amount of its assets and liabilities at the balance sheet date.

3) Current income tax and deferred tax

Current tax and deferred income tax are recognized in profit or loss, except that for items associated with other comprehensive income or directly recognized in equity, such taxes are recognized in other comprehensive income or directly in equity separately.

5. Critical accounting Judgements and Key Sources of Estimation Uncertainty And Assumptions

When the Corporation adopts accounting policies, management must make judgments, estimates, and assumptions based on historical experience and other critical factors for related information that are not readily available from other sources. Actual results may differ from original estimates.

The Corporation takes into account the recent development of COVID-19 in Taiwan and its possible impact on the economic environment in the estimation of cash flow, growth rate, discount rate, profitability and other relevant significant accounting estimates, and the management will constantly review the estimations and underlying assumptions. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognized in the year in which the estimate is revised if the revision affects that year or in the year of the revision and future years if the revision affects both current and future years.

Additionally, according to Order Jing-Shang-Zi No. 09402428670 dated December 15, 2005, the capital reserve of a holding company can be appropriated as cash dividends if it was the unappropriated retained earnings of a subsidiary before share swap between a holding company and a subsidiary. Further, according to Order Tai-Cai-Rong-(1)-Zi No. 0910016280, as such capital surplus does not result from operation of a holding company, the above statement does not extend to employees' compensation and remuneration of directors and supervisors.

Note 2. Such capital surplus may be used to offset a deficit; in addition, when the Corporation has no deficit, such capital surplus may be distributed as cash dividends or transferred to share capital (limited to a certain percentage of the Corporation's capital surplus and to once a year).

Note 3. Such capital surplus arises from the effects of changes in ownership interests in subsidiaries and associates resulting from equity transactions other than actual disposals or acquisitions or from changes in capital surplus of subsidiaries and associates accounted for using the equity method.

(3) Retained earnings and dividend policy

In accordance with the Corporation's Articles of Incorporation, current year's earnings shall be distributed in the following order:

- 1) Tax payment in accordance with laws.

- 3) Set aside 10% of remaining amount as legal reserve;
- 4) Recognition or appropriation for special reserve return earnings in accordance with laws and regulations.
- 5) For the payment dividends, if there is no surplus, the dividends shall not be paid with capital stock.
- 6) Appropriation of the remainder plus the accumulated unappropriated retained earnings of prior year shall be proposed by the board of directors and resolved by the shareholders.

Dividends appropriation shall be proposed by the board of directors during its meeting, with the amount between 10% to 90% of the accumulated unappropriated retained earnings. Of the total dividends, cash dividends shall account for 20% or greater of the total dividends distributed. Please refer to Note 15 (7) "Remuneration for Employees and Directors" for the policy of employee and director bonus distribution stipulated in the Articles of Incorporation of the Company.

The Corporation's dividend policy is as follows:

As the Corporation operates in a volatile business environment and is in the stable growth stage, dividends would be distributed in the form of capitalization of earnings, capitalization of capital reserve and cash. Low cash dividend policy would be adopted when any investment would be conducted and can increase the Corporation's profitability; in this case, dividends would be distributed in the form of capitalization of earnings or capital reserve. High cash dividend policy would be adopted when capital expansion has affected the Corporation's profitability.

The legal reserve shall be exclusively used to cover accumulated deficit, to issue new stocks or distribute cash to shareholders in proportion to their share ownership. The use of legal reserve for the issuance of stocks or cash dividends to shareholders in proportion to their share ownership is permitted provided that the balance of such reserve exceeds 25% of the Corporation's paid-in capital.

In accordance with the regulations, the Corporation shall set aside special reserve from the debit balance on other equity items at the balance sheet date before distributing earnings. When debit balance on other equity items is reversed subsequently, the reversed amount could be included in the distributable earnings.

The amounts previously set aside by the Corporation as special reserve on initial application of the IFRSs in accordance with Financial Supervisory Commission order No. 1010012865 dated April 6, 2012 shall be reversed proportionately when the relevant assets are used, disposed of or reclassified subsequently. Such amounts are reversed upon disposal or reclassified if the assets are investment property of land, and reversed over the use period if the assets are investment property other than land.

If the Corporation offered to settle compensation or bonus paid to employees in cash or shares, the Corporation assumed the entire amount of the compensation or bonus will be settled in shares and the resulting potential shares were included in the weighted average number of shares outstanding used in the computation of diluted earnings per share, as the effect is dilutive. Such dilutive effect of the potential shares is included in the computation of diluted earnings per share until the number of shares to be distributed to employees is resolved in the following year.

18. Disposal of Subsidiaries

AnTec Biotech Co., Ltd. completed the liquidation process in August 2022, and its losses on disposal of subsidiaries amounted to NT$10,391 thousand.

19. Capital Risk Management

The Corporation's objectives when managing capital are based on the scale of the industry involved, considering future growth and product development in the industry, and setting appropriate market share, as well as plan for corresponding capital expenditure, calculation of operating capital needed for financial operations, and considering operating profit and cash inflows arising from product competitiveness, to determine appropriate capital structure. Please refer to the balance sheets of each period for information on liability and capitalization ratios.

20. Financial Instruments

(1) Categories of financial instruments

	December 31, 2022	December 31, 2021
Financial Assets
Financial assets at amortized cost (Note 1)	$ 1,060,993	$ 62,525
Financial Liabilities
Financial liabilities at amortized cost (Note 2)	133,467	481,647

Note 1. The balance includes financial assets measured at amortized cost, which includes cash and cash equivalents, other receivables (including related parties), and refundable deposits (recognized in other non-current assets).

Note 2. The balance includes financial liabilities measured at amortized cost, which includes other payables, long-term borrowings (included current portion).

(2) Financial risk management objectives and policies

The Corporation's day-to-day business activities may expose it to financial risks, including market risk (including foreign exchange risk and interest rate risk), and liquidity risk. The Corporation's overall risk management policy focuses on steady management and does not seek to minimize potential adverse effects on the Corporation's financial position and financial performance. The Corporation does not use derivative financial instruments to hedge certain risk exposures.

1) Market risk

Due to the Corporation's business activities, the main financial risks borne by the Corporation are currency risk (see (a) below) and interest rate risk (see (b) below).

The Corporation's exposure to market risk of financial instruments and its management and measurement of such exposure remain unchanged.

a. Currency risk

The carrying amounts of the Corporation's foreign currency denominated monetary assets and monetary liabilities on the balance sheet date are set out in Note 22.

Sensitivity analysis

The Corporation is exposed mainly to exchange rate fluctuations of USD, RMB and JPY.

The sensitivity analysis includes only outstanding monetary items denominated in foreign currencies and is used to adjust the translation at the end of the period to a 1% change in the exchange rate.

The positive amount in the table below indicates the amount that will reduce the profit before tax when NTD appreciates by 1% against the relevant currencies; when NTD depreciates by 1% against the relevant foreign currency, its impact on the profit before tax or interests will be a negative number of the same amount.

Impact on profit or loss	2022	2021
USD	$ 9,375	$ 105
RMB	776	-
JPY	123	63

In management's opinion, sensitivity analysis was unrepresentative of the inherent foreign exchange risk. The exposure at the end of the reporting period did not reflect the exposure during the period because sales are seasonal.

b. Interest rate risk

By taking out loans at the floating rate, the Corporation is exposing to interest rate risk.

The carrying amounts of financial assets and financial liabilities of the Corporation exposed to interest rate risk on the balance sheet date are as follows:

	December 31, 2022	December 31, 2021
Fair value interest rate risk
- Financial liabilities	$ 2,843	$ 717
Cash flow interest rate risk
- Financial assets	$ 1,052,059	$ 47,115
- Financial liabilities	$ 110,000	$ 460,000

Sensitivity analysis

The sensitivity analysis below was determined based on the Group's exposure to interest rates for both derivative and non-derivative instruments on the balance sheet date. For floating rate liabilities, the analysis was prepared assuming the amount of each liability outstanding at the end of the reporting period.

If the interest rate increases/decreases by 10 basis points, with other variables held constant, the Corporation's profit before income tax will increase/decrease by NT$942 thousand and increase/decrease by NT$413 thousand for the years ended December 31, 2022 and 2021, respectively.

2) Liquidity risk

Cash flow forecasting is performed by each operating entity of the Corporation and compiled by the Corporation's finance department. The Corporation's finance department monitors rolling forecasts of the group's liquidity requirements to ensure it has sufficient cash to meet operational needs. Such forecasting takes into consideration the Corporation's debt financing plans, covenant compliance, and compliance with internal balance sheet ratio targets.

a. Table of liquidity of non-derivative financial liabilities and interest risk

The following tables detail the Corporation's remaining contractual maturity for its non-derivative financial liabilities with agreed repayment periods. The tables are drawn up based on the undiscounted cash flows of financial liabilities from the earliest date on which the Corporation can be required to pay.

V. Reinvestment Policies of the Most Recent Year, Main Reasons for Investment Gains or Losses, Improvement Plans, and Investment Plans of the Upcoming Year:

(I) Reinvestment Policy:

YungShin Group has been adhering to worldwide deployment, launching new products and the management and optimized merger of invested businesses, aiming to seize market opportunities in various regions and integrate resources of various investment businesses to explore the international market, and to vertically integrate the upstream, midstream and downstream industry chains to achieve the goal of maximizing corporate value.

(II) Reasons for profit or loss:

The Company's principal business is investment-related and its principal revenue is the recognition of operating profit or loss of each investee enterprise. The investment income recognized in 2022 is NT$930,129 thousand. In this year, because of the COVID-19 epidemic spreading across the world, resulting in unexpected challenges such as raw material supply shortage, countries' protectionist barriers, and transportation barriers, in the face of the worsening business environment, the re-investment businesses adhere to immediate response and rapid adjustment to continue to optimize the system, improve the competitiveness and overall operation performance to maintain a sound operation.

(III) Improvement plans:

With respect to the businesses whose operating results are not as expected, we have adjusted our operating strategies to increase, reduce or integrate the businesses according to the changing environment and the development goals of the Group, and coordinated with the support and sharing of the Group's resources to integrate the businesses, dynamically adjust the Group's investment to maximize the Group's investment.

APIs with "stable supply, reliable quality, and competitive costs" are the key to winning the competition in the main generic drug market. The effective control of the end-user market is the key to the Corporation's sustainable development. If it is necessary to obtain loans in the financial market, the Corporation shall strive to obtain preferential interest rates to reduce costs. In response to changes in foreign exchange rates, other investee companies adopt natural hedging to control the level of foreign currency funds or enter into forward foreign exchange contracts with banks to respond to the risk of exchange rate fluctuations. Inflation has no significant impact on the Corporation and the Group.

Domestic region: The proposed measures of the Health Insurance Administration to reduce drug prices may have an adverse impact on domestic sales of health insurance covered drugs, depending on the situation from year to year. The Group has actively expanded the domestic non-NHI market and overseas sales to reduce the impact of the price cut of domestic NHI drugs.
2. Mainland China: The National Development and Reform Commission has lowered the prices of drugs in the basic list and set up the centralized procurement policy. However, the overall market in Mainland China continues to grow, and the invested businesses can still grow stably.
3. US: In 2018, the US government changed the supply model to allow US manufacturers to use raw materials from non-TAA countries for the use of government standards so that local manufacturing investment businesses can have better business opportunities.

(V) Impact of technological change and industrial change on the Corporation's financial business and countermeasures: Regular Strategic Committee and cross-company functional liaison meetings have been held to conduct regular meetings and follow-up on cross-company platforms for crisis management, opportunity sharing, and resource maximization.
